MRS. LAMBERT TELLS OF SEEING SPIRIT OPEN DOOR

Mysterious Force Drove Burglar Away by Showing Light in Bathroom.

HER SON IN DANGER

Party Led to Search House and Told to Keep Guard Over Sleeping Child.

INTRUDER AT WINDOW

Footprints Next Morning Showed Someone Had Made Attempt to Enter.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Prof. James H. Hyslop, secretary of the American Society of Psychical Research today made public a series of startling Spiritualistic experiments by Mrs. Helen Lambert, wife of Jordan W. Lambert, the millionaire chemist of St. Louis.

The most amazing of these stories is one which tells how a spirit saved Mrs. Lambert from a burglar at her home in St. Louis. It seems that Mrs. Lambert one evening was conducting a test in automatic writing by Will Hannegan, a clerk in the employ of Mr. Lambert. A Miss Howard, a nurse, and Miss Lillie Hannegan, sister of Will, were present.

A spirit claiming to be Mr. Hannegan's guide, Joe Wentworth by name, was communicating.

"Suddenly," says Mrs. Lambert, "all of us were jerked from our seats and led by some invisible force into my son's playroom, where he was sleeping in his cot.

After being led back to the table we put out the lights and Miss Howard and Lillie Hannegan, supposedly guided by the spirit, wrote rapidly the words: 'Must watch Mrs. Lambert and junior.' (her son).

"Then Will and I were pulled from our seats and made to hurry into my bedroom, so fast that we had no control over our feet. We were led directly to my open closet and made to search in every corner of it and then the unseen force hurried us to the front door, where my hand was made to try the bolt, which was open, and which I was made to close.

Writing of the aWrning.

"We were then drawn back into the parlor. Will turned on the light and was seized with the desire to write. This was what his pencil dashed off: 'The man, the man, he was in the hall and will come back again. He was thinking of hiding in Mrs. Lambert's closet. He thinks she has jewelry there. You must watch. Don't go to bed. He will be back.'

"Just then we heard the main door close downstairs. I said I would phone the police, but Will was still holding the pencil and it wrote: 'No, do not. They would not get here in time. He will be back, and you must watch for him. Will shall hear him and must shoot.'

"We were very much alarmed, but Miss Howard and Lillie went to bed near by, so Will and I looked at the kitchen windows, and they appeared fastened. We then put out all the lights except in the bathroom, the door of which was partly closed. I gave Will my revolver. He heard a noise outside the hall door, but when we got there the noise seemed to be receding downstairs. We sat a long time, when Will heard a voice from the air, saying warningly: 'Look out, look out,' and we both heard a noise in the back hall.

"We looked down the stairs and saw that the bathroom door had been closed. In a minute the door opened wide, letting a stream of light out, and then was closed again. Suddenly Will said something told him to go into the kitchen, but I would not let him. Then we went to the bathroom and found it empty. In the kitchen we found the window open. In the morning we found muddy footmarks trailed up the steps and on the landing at the front door.

"The next day we had a seance and the spirit of Jo Wentworth told, through Will as a medium, that the man had opened the window but had not entered the kitchen. Then Jo told us that he would guard over us and that he had moved Will to go into the kitchen when he had a desire to do so the night before, and I restrained him.

"Jo also told us that the man had not only wanted jewels, but had had designs upon junior and myself and declared that he had frightened him away by opening and closing the bathroom door as we had seen it.

A Post-Dispatch reporter who called at the Lambert residence at 4101 McPherson avenue was informed that Mrs. Lambert was not at home. At Mr. Lambert's office it was said that he was out of the city.

ABRUZZI-ELKINS AFFAIR TANGLED LIKE SPAGHETTI

MISS KATHERINE ELKINS.

Kings, Queens and Princes in International Matrimonial Alliance.

Special Cable to New York American.

PARIS, Oct. 20.

NOW King Edward, whose reputation for tact has been much impaired during the past few weeks, has added to the entanglements of the Abruzzi-Elkins match. The influence of the English court is being used against this democratic marriage. The reason is that it will stand in the way of the projected betrothal of the Count of Turin and the Princess Patricia of Connaught.

Prince Victor Emanuel, Count of Turin, is the elder brother of the Duke of the Abruzzi. The Princess Patricia is the daughter of the Duke of Connaught, and therefore niece of King Edward. The marriage of the Duke to Miss Elkins and the union of the Count of Turin and the Princess Patricia would therefore make Miss Elkins a sister-in-law of King Edward's niece, a relationship which does not seem to appeal to the British monarch.

The English court does not care to acquire West Virginian relatives in this roundabout way, and it is believed that the Turin-Connaught match is definitely off since the Abruzzi is determined to take an American bride into the royal Italian family.

LONDON, Oct. 20.

A ROME dispatch to the Daily Mail reads:

"The Dowager Duchess of Aosta, stepmother of the Duke of the Abruzzi, has officially informed the Mayor of Asti of his approaching marriage.

"Miss Elkins' Duke will leave for America the middle of November. On his return with his bride, great celebrations will be held in Rome and Turin. Cardinal Gibbons will supervise the conversion of Miss Elkins to Roman Catholicism."

King to Make Announcement.

(Special Cable to the New York Sun.)

ROME, Oct. 20.

THE King will announce the engagement of the Duke of Abruzzi and Miss Catherine Elkins by means of a letter to Prime Minister Giolitti, who will communicate the news to the press. The announcement will not be made before the arrival of the Duke in America, which will probably be some time next month.

A squadron of three Italian battleships will sail from Spezzia for the United States about Nov. 15 and from this circumstance it is deduced that the marriage will take place in December.

Court Jeweler Muzy of Turin, it it stated, has received orders from several members of the royal family for wedding presents, which, according to custom, will be carried to America by the Duke.

The Duke is still in Turin. He appears to be very cheerful, but he shuns publicity.

King Withholds Consent.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

(Special Cable to the New York Times.)

ROME, Oct. 20.

I AM informed on very good authority that the inexplicable silence of the Duke of the Abruzzi in the face of the protests of the whole Italian nation arises from the fact that, contrary to what has been asserted, the King withholds that consent to the alliance with Miss Elkins, without which the Duke cannot marry. He wishes to delay the statement confirming his engngement, hoping to overcome the King's reluctance.

Meanwhile, notwithstanding his desire to maintain secrecy, the Duke of the Abruzzi cannot conceal his preparations for the marriage, information of which has leaked out and augments gossip.

Duke Headed for America.

TURIN, Oct. 20.

THE Duke of the Abruzzi has suddenly disappeared from Turin and a search has failed to trace him, and the report has gained circulation that he has left for America, sailing under an assumed name.

Elkins Maintains Silence.

ELKINS, W. Va., Oct. 20.—WHEN the cable dispatches from Turin and London in connection with the alleged engagement between Miss Katherine Elkins and the Duke of the Abruzzi were brought to the attention of United States Senator Elkins, he said:

"The information is not from my family or myself. We cannot say anything about it."

3-CENT FARE IS MAYOR'S THREAT TO COLLECT TAX

Wells Suggests United Railways Would Rather Pay Than Change Rate.

$1,132,000 IS NOW DUE

Company Is Also Liable for $900,000 in Fines for Refusing Reports.

CITY COULD DO ANY OF THESE WITH $1,132,000 UNITED RAILWAYS OWES

BUILD approaches and pay land damages for the free bridge (according to President O'Reilly's estimate.)

Build Female and Convalescent hospital and five public bath houses.

Buy Fair Grounds Park and build new City Jail.

Build needed new fire engine houses and Workhouse and buy six small parks.

Make a half-mile start on building subway, to take business now handled by United Railways Co. in surface cars.

Declaring that he would do his utmost to make the United Railways Co. pay the one-mill occupation tax required by the City ordinance, which the United States Supreme Court has finally upheld, Mayor Wells Tuesday added, with a significant smile:

"I think the United Railways Co. will find the one-mill-a-passenger tax cheaper, in the long run, than 3-cent fares."

When asked whether he considered 3-cent fares a probable outcome of the company's present controversy with the city, the Mayor smiled and made no reply.

Mayor to Consider Procedure.

"Will you move for the forfeiture of the company's franchise, with a view to municipal ownership?" he was asked.

"I cannot say what the procedure will be until I have consulted the City Counselor," he replied. "I realize that the responsibility of enforcing the law is mine, and I shall try to take the most effective measures."

The company, which has exhausted its last resource in resisting the tax in the Federal courts, is expected to appeal to the State courts in a further effort to defeat the city. Judge H. S. Priest, the company's counsel, is said to have remarked that the company has "only begun to fight."

Tax Is Fair, Says Mayor.

"I know from my own experience in street-car management," said the Mayor, "that the tax of one mill, or 2 per cent of each 5-cent fare, is not unreasonable. It is a fair return for the use of the streets, and is assessed on that basis.

"The old license tax of $25 a car, which was repealed by the new law, was a just one, but there was always difficulty in enforcing it, because of continual disputes over the number of cars actually run."

As told in Monday's Post-Dispatch, the company now owes the city back taxes, under the ordinance, estimated at $1,132,000. The tax, assessed at the rate of one-tenth of a cent for every 5-cent passenger, will amount, when collected for future years, to a sum from $200,000 to $250,000 a year.

The city's next step for the enforcement of the ordinance and the collection of the arrears and current taxes will be decided on at a meeting of the Mayor, City Counselor and Comptroller, to be held as soon as official notice of the Supreme Court's action is received from Washington.

The city can prosecute the company in the police courts for its refusal to furnish daily reports, as required by the law, and can ask that it be fined the maximum, $500, for each day that it has wilfully withheld the reports. The total of these fines would exceed $900,000.

Taxes a Lien on Property.

Another course open to the city is to claim the back taxes due as a debt, and file suit in the civil courts. Lawyers say the unpaid taxes constitute a lien on the company's property.

A third course of action is to proceed legally for the annulment of the company's franchise, on the ground of its failure to meet its logical obligations to the city.

City Counselor Bates was unwilling Tuesday to indicate which course he would favor. He has taken an active interest in the enforcement of the one-mill tax, and conducted the city's case successfully at Washington.

Comptroller Player aid Tuesday that he would favor using the money collected from the company, both arrears and current taxes, for the extension of the sewer system. This he regards as the most needy of public improvement enterprises.

City Register Regan said Tuesday that he would renew his demands on the company for the quarterly reports, required under a law not affected by the one-mill tax law, but withheld by the company for six months past. If the reports were not sent in, Regan said, he would officially notify the Mayor.

POLICEMEN ARE DECORATED FOR WORK OF MERIT

Bravest Man on Force Quails When Time Comes to Accept Medal.

1200 MEN IN PARADE

Mayor and Police Commissioners and 500 Guests at Annual Inspection.

James Omohundro, bravest policeman in St. Louis during the last year, who climbed to the roof of the City Hospital and risked his life to capture a raving maniac, was so timid before the thousands who gathered around the police reviewing stand in Twelfth street Tuesday that a sergeant had to be sent for him to bring him forward to receive his medal from President Gray of the Police Board.

After the police parade had marched through the business streets of the city and the 1200 policemen had lined up for inspection in front of the stand, everything was made ready for the presentation of the medals. It was then discovered that Omohundro was missing. He was found in the ranks of the Third District policemen, and was escorted to the stand amid cheers.

The annual inspection and parade of the department passed off without a hitch. The parade started at Twelfth and Olive streets at 11 a. m. and disbanded after the dress parade had passed in review before the members of the Police Board and their guests in Twelfth and Chestnut streets at 1 p. m.

Three Medals Presented.

Three gold medals and 13 honorable mention badges were presented to members of the Department by President Gray. Sergt. John J. McMullen, who has distinguished himself in the investigation of election frauds, was awarded a gold medal for the best arrest; Patrolman Omohundro, a medal for the greatest act of bravery, and Sergt. Sidney Sears for the best revolver marksmanship.

The policemen were called individually to the reviewing stand and received their medals from President Gray. He commended them highly for their conduct, and declared that the Board was proud of them on account of their fidelity to their trust and their records without blot or blemish.

The patrolmen who received honorable mention badges were Edward Eichorn, Rudolph J. Duerkob, Philip Wagner, James R. Campbell, Oliver Hennessy, Anton Tomasso, Albert W. Sicking, William C. Murphy, Louis Scheibly, William McDonnell, Dominick Lavin, Mark Lavin, Roger J. Harty, Robert Kaiser and Michael J. Scarry.

Chief of Detectives Smith was not in the parade, nor was he in the reviewing stand. Assistant Chief of Detectives McCarthy rode in the parade and stood on the reviewing stand during the ceremonies.

500 in Reviewing Stand.

The main reviewing stand was occupied by 500 invited guests, most of the city, State and Government officials. A special stand was reserved for members of the police board and their wives. Mrs. Benjamin R. Gray and her daughter-in-law were the only women in this enclosure. Chief Creecy's two daughters, Misses Margaret and Mary Creecy and Miss Anna Gray occupied seats nearby.

The police made a splendid showing in their new uniforms and white gloves. They were drilled to perfection by Drillmaster T. Rosser Roemeer. They showed to advantage both in the inspection lines and the dress parade in front of the reviewing stand.

An interesting feature of the event was an exhibition of racing by the motorcycle patrol squad. The five motorcycle policemen whose duty it is to hold automobile scorchers in subjection, flew up and down Twelfth street several times at a speed of 60 miles an hour.

Prisoners Gain Liberty.

While the parade was in progress Judge Pollard of the Dayton Street Police Court set at liberty several prisoners because the policemen were not there to prosecute. He criticised policemen for neglecting their duty, as he put it, to participate in the parade.

Commissioner Fristoe did not participate in the ceremonies. After the parade the other commissioners were guests of Mayor Wells at luncheon at the Southern Hotel.

There were three divisions of the parade, including Mayor Wells and the police commissioners in carriages, four platoons of mounted men, 10 companies marching as infantry, two bands, patrol wagons and police autos.

The parade left Twelfth and Olive at 11 a. m. Its route was east on Olive to Broadway, to Walnut, to Fourth, to Washington, to Twelfth and the reviewing stand on Twelfth between Chestnut and Pine streets.

Formation of the Parade.

The parade was made up as follows: Chief Creecy and aides, Dr. A. C. Robinson, Police Surgeon, and Lieutenant-Colonel C. G. Gillaspy, Assistant Chief, both on dark horses.

Four platoons of mounted men, commanded by Capt. Martin O'Brien.

Carriages as follows: In the first, Mayor Wells and President Gray of the Police Board; in the second, Commissioners George P. Jones and Theodoric

ICE KING'S WOMAN LIEUTENANT WHO DIRECTED BIG TRUST

ST. LOUISANS DO NOT APPRECIATE ART, CLUB IS TOLD

Mrs. Everett W. Pattison Sees Beauty in the Mill Creek Valley.

Mrs. Everett W. Pattison said Tuesday at the sixth annual meeting of the St. Louis district of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs being held at the Temple Israel that the taste of St. Louisans must be cultivated before art can be properly appreciated by them.

"You see great structures of silverware in the houses," said Mrs. Patterson in her address, "but you don't see evidences of tasteful decorations in the bedrooms and in the kitchens. To a person of taste the appearance of a pincushion is important.

"The Mill Creek Valley is a very ugly sight to the ordinary person. To a person of taste and appreciation it is a very beautiful sight in the early morning before the mists have risen and the steam from the engines obscures the view and when the fog at night rolls up from the river and the lights shine dimly through.

"Our children must be educated to appreciate fine effects, to see beauty in everything. Then it will be time for us to take them to the art galleries and museums."

Mrs. Pattison's address was received with much applause. She is chairman of the Art Commitee of the National Federation of Women's Clubs and is considered one of the best-informed women in St. Louis.

Tuesday afternoon the election of officers was held. There were half a dozen addresses by members during the day.

TEACHER SEALED PUPILS' LIPS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 20.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Miss Edith Wirt, a school teacher in Kansas City, Kan., because she pasted a strip of court plaster across the lips of Harvey Gallaway, a 9-year-old pupil who talked too much in school. The warrant was sworn out by the boy's father and charges cruel punishment.

MORSE'S TRUST HAD $33,000,000 IN "GOOD WILL"

Tangible Assets Were $13,000,000, According to President's Testimony.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—More light was shed on the octopus grip maintained by Charles W. Morse on Wall street while that financier was earning his title of "ice king" in 1905-6-7, at the resumption of the hearing today in the United States Circuit Court against him and Alfred H. Curtis, charged with wrecking the Bank of North America.

The appearance in court of Miss Wilson, Morse's secretary, revived the report that she was to take the stand and tell how she practically directed the affairs of the National Bank of North America and the Ice Trust.

After Wesley M. Oler, president of the American Ice Co., had detailed how Morse, to whome he owed much money, practically forced him to buy large blocks of stock of the American Ice Securities Co. and then flatly refused to allow him to sell, Edward P. Moxey, the Government detective, was called.

Maintained 60 Accounts.

Moxey showed that Morse maintained no less than 60 accounts for the handling of the Stock Exchange accounts in the offices of different brokers and that "wash sales" and a thousand other devices to artificially advance the price of American Ice were to him an everyday practice.

Morse was shown to have had accounts with Charles W. Gates & Co., with John W. Wallace & Co. and a score of other brokers, which were devised in most peculiar fashion to cover his operations.

"C. W. Morse," "C. W. Morse special," "X. C. T.," "John F. Carroll, guaranteed by C. W. Morse," "Morse, Barney & Schwab," and a score of other devices were bared by the Government sleuth as means whereby the "ice king" had covered his tracks.

Detailing Morse's operations in 1905, Moxey showed that on August 2 Morse bought and sold on the stock exchange 4100 shares of American ice through one

MASKED MEN LYNCH TWO LAWYERS; ONE HANGED AND SHOT

The Other Is Missing and There Is Little Doubt That He Met Fate of His Companion.

$10,000 REWARD OFFERED FOR EACH MOB MEMBER

Men Who Had Bought Control of Tennessee Lake and Enjoined Fishermen From Angling There Taken From Hotel by Masked Men at Midnight.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 20.—Col. R. Z. Taylor and Capt. Quinten Rankin, prominent attorneys of Trenton, Tenn., were taken from their hotel on Reelfoot Lake last midnight by night riders. At daylight Capt. Rankin's body was found hanging to a tree, riddled with bullets.

The body of Col. Taylor has not been found, but it is believed that he was also slain. Gov. Patterson has offered a reward of $10,000 for the arrest and conviction of each person engaged in the murder.

The first news of the murder last night was received from the manager of Ward's Hotel at Walnut Log. He telephoned to Sid Waddell, a stockholder in the West Tennessee Land Co., stating that about 25 masked night riders came to his hotel at 12 o'clock last night. According to this report the night riders lined up outside the hotel, pulled out their revolvers and called for Taylor and Rankin. The two men did not suspect trouble and came down immediately.

As the attorneys passed into the front part of the hotel, the night riders covered them with their revolvers. Before the attorneys had an opportunity to retreat, they were surrounded and seized. They were put on horses behind night riders and carefully guarded.

The night riders then quietly took up their march from the hotel, turning down the road toward Reelfoot Lake. Guests at the hotel in a few minutes lost the sound of the crunching hoofbeats and nothing more was learned of the fate of Capt. Rankin and Col Taylor until this morning.

Proceeding to the edge of Reelfoot Lake the night riders pulled out a rope, with which they had provided themselves, and placed the noose about Capt. Rankin's neck. Examination of the scene of the murder failed to reveal any evidence of a struggle.

Hanged and Then Shot.

Capt. Rankin was strung up from a limb on the bank of the lake, for the fishing privileges of which he had contended with the night riders. The masked men then stepped back and opened fire on the swinging body, riddling it with bullets.

Judge Taylor was evidently alive at this time and witnessed the killing of his law partner.

Leaving the body of Capt. Rankin hanging on the bank of the lake the night riders took Col. Taylor to another spot. Search near Capt. Rankin's body has failed to reveal a trace of Col. Taylor. No sign of a hat or piece of clothing can be discovered.

While it is generally believed that Col. Taylor was murdered as he had no opportunity whatever to escape, the theory has been advanced that perhaps he was spared in order that the demands of the masked men might be granted.

Trouble Due to Fishing Rights.

The trouble between inhabitants on the banks of Reelfoot Lake and Col. Taylor and Capt. Rankin originated several years ago, when the two lawyers incorporated and organized the West Tennessee Land Co.

They bought Reelfoot Lake from nonresident property owners and immediately made investigations of their own concerning fishing privileges. The lake separates Obion and Lake counties, in the extreme northwest corner of Tennessee.

Numbers of the residents in that neighborhood have made their living for a long time by fishing in the lake, and they became indignant after what they claimed as their "rights" were disturbed. They made demands of the land company and these were followed by threats against Col. Taylor. He desired the protection, in some form, of the State, and he caused the passage in the Legislature of an act regulating fishing on Reelfoot Lake. This act made it a misdemeanor to fish in the lake without paying a heavy fee.

This only served to more thoroughly arouse the fishermen.

Six months ago, Judge Harris of Union City enjoined fishing on Reel Foot Lake without permission of the Reel Foot Lake Fishing Co. The Tennessee Land Co. received threatening notices. These were followed by an attack by night riders on the man in charge of the huts of the land company along Reel Foot Lake. At the point of guns this man, John Shaw, was forced by the night riders to set fire to all of the company's buildings at that place, burning each of them to the ground.

Attorneys Were Warned.

Fearing trouble, Capt. Rankin and Col. Taylor have remained away from the vicinity of the lake for some time. Recently, however, they heard that the feeling against them had somewhat subsided. There were some legal papers at Walnut Log which needed attention, and the attorneys went there yesterday to see about them.

Their presence was soon made known to all of the fishermen.

R. Z. Taylor was the father of the football star, Hillsman Taylor, who was married to Miss Katherine Taylor, daughter of Senator Robert L. Taylor, last fall. One of R. Z. Taylor's sons is Don C. Taylor, a traveling salesman for the Simmons Hardware Co. of St. Louis.

Capt. Rankin was a prominent lawyer of Trenton. He commanded a company in the Spanish-American War and served in the Cuban campaign.

Gov. Patterson was at Covington when news of the murder was received and immediately canceled his engagement to speak there today.

Surveyor Reported Missing.

He had been informed that not only were Judge Taylor and Capt. Rankin murdered, but he has also learned that a surveyor who was with the lawyers is also missing and may have met the same fate as the other two.

Gov. Patterson has asked the authorities of the northwestern counties of the State whether they will be able to cope with the situation or whether troops are necessary.

Sheriff Eastwood of Obion County and a posse of armed men left Union City this morning for the scene of the murders. If they meet any of the night riders it is expected that a pitched battle will be fought.

Sheriff Haynes of Lake County is also on his way to the scene with a posse from Tiptonsville.

SPERRY GETS MESSAGE FROM JAPAN'S RULER

American Naval Officers Received at Imperial Palace by the Mikado.

SCENE IS BRILLIANT

President's Message Read and Emperor Replies Expressing Friendship.

TOKIO, Oct. 20.—After a day of brilliant social functions Admiral Sperry and his flag officers are resting tonight in Shiba palace, firmly convinced that no nation can outdo Japan in the heartiness of a welcome extended to the representatives of a foreign government.

By far the most brilliant and important event of the day was the reception given by the Emperor to Admirals Sperry, Wainwright, Schroeder and Emerey, the fleet captains and the chief of staff and flag lieutenants.

The admirals were presented to the Mikado by Ambassador O'Brien and Admiral Sperry presented the message of good will from President Roosevelt, which deeply affected the Emperor. With a few introductory remarks the Emperor made a formal reply to the President's message, in which he expressed the same deep interest in the continued friendship of the two nations.

Reception Was Brilliant.

The imperial reception was the most brilliant affair seen in Japan in years, the gold braid of the naval men and the magnificent robes of the Japanese making the scene appear more like a stage picture than an epochal meeting between the representatives of two rival nations.

The action of Admiral Sperry at the dinner given by Ambassador O'Brien, in dramatically proposing the toasts of Admiral Togo and Gen. Kuroki, before permitting the host to toast the American fleet, has deeply touched the Japanese, and today the incident is being commented on throughout the kingdom.

Sailors Enjoying Sights.

Prime Minister Komura and Naval Minister Saito entertained the officers of the fleet tonight with dinners.

While the admirals and captains are being feted in Tokio word comes from Yokohama that the petty officers and men of the fleet are having the time of their lives. The shore privileges of the men have been increased during the stay in Japan, in order that they may enjoy to the fullest the attractions prepared for them. Thousands come to Tokio daily and the road between the two great Japanese cities is chiefly traveled by the jackies.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The following is the text of President Roosevelt's message to Rear Admiral Sperry for transmission to the Emperor of Japan:

"Convey to His Majesty, the Emperor of Japan, my best wishes for his continued good health and happiness and that of all the inhabitants of his realm. Express to His Majesty the high gratification afforded me and the people of the United States at this opportunity which permits the Commander-in-Chief of the Atlantic fleet in person to present my appreciation of the friendship which has existed from the earliest time between the United States and Japan and of the honor to the United States in this invitation to the United States Atlantic fleet to visit the Empire of Japan in its practice cruise around the world.

"You will express to His Majesty, the Emperor, my earnest wish for the strengthening and continuance of the friendly relations which exist and which have always existed betwen the two countries.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

Mikado Sends Message.

Admiral Sperry's reply, which was addressed to the Secretary of the Navy for the President was as follows:

"President's telegram read to Emperor at audience this morning. Reply as follows:

"'Admiral Sperry. It affords me especial pleasure to welcome you as the representative of the American navy and to receive through you from your respected President his very friendly message. I request you to assure the President that I most sincerely appreciate and most cordially reciprocate his sentiments of friendship and good will. It is a source of profound satisfaction to me that the most cordial relations of regard and good correspondence exist between Japan and the United States any my thanks are due to the President for affording my subjects by your visit an opportunity to give new proof of their sincere attachment for your country men. I also wish you to convey to the President this message:

"'The historic relations of good understanding and genuine friendship with the United States I count as a valued heritage of my reign, and it shall be in the future as it has been in the past my constant aim and desire to weld the ties of amity uniting the two countries into indissoluble bonds of friendship. I trust that the same success which has so far attended your voyage may follow you to the end of your voyage.'"

"The Emperor in person with the Princess gave lunch to our Ambassador, all ministers of state and the most distinguished officers of the Japanese army being present. Our visit is most generous and satisfactory in every way.

"SPERRY."

FOSSIL OF LIZARD 40 FEET LONG, 22 FEET HIGH, FOUND

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Oct. 20.—The remains of a prehistoric animal, 40 feet long and 22 feet in height, have been found in the bad lands south of Glasgow, Mont., by Barnum Brown of New York, an attache of the American museum of Natural History.

The relic has been shipped to New York. It took 16 teams to haul the fossil to the railroad, the skull alone weighing 4000 pounds. Mr. Brown classifies the fossil as a tyraunosaurus rex or "King of the Lizards."

800 CLUBWOMEN IN SESSION AT EAST ST. LOUIS

Illinois Federation Wishes Men to Attend and See What They Are Doing.

LEGISLATION WANTED

Delegates Hope for National Child Labor Bureau Run by Woman.

Illinois club women in convention assembled at the First M. E. Church in East St. Louis, want the men to come around and see what they are doing. They commissioned Mayor Cook Tuesday morning to go out and spread the tidings 'round.

Mrs. George Watkins of Chicago, president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, did the commissioning. It was in her speech of response to the welcoming addresses of Mrs. L. C. Haynes, chairman of the local Board of Arrangements, and Mayor Cook. With the exception of two newspaper reporters, Mayor Cook was the only man in sight and the big church was filled with women. His loneliness and helplessness may have suggested the invitation. Anyway Mrs. Watkins told him to go out and tell all the men to come in and see the women do things.

Mrs. Haynes mildly reproached some of the delegates who had addressed their letters to "East St. Louis, Mo.," and expressed the hope that they would find out that East St. Louis is a city by itself, even if it is named after a bigger city across the river. By way of proving that it is a city she remarked that it has seven women's clubs.

Clubs Sufficient Proof.

That convinced the delegates. Mrs. Haynes told them that one of the features of their entertainment would be a trolley trip Wednesday afternoon to Monk's Mound.

Mayor Cook said the club women who labored with legislative bodies had a pretty hard proposition to go up against, but that if anybody could move a legislature the women could.

Mrs. Watkins said when the delegates arrived they thought the electric arches over the downtown streets were in their honor and they were glad, and when they learned that the arches were there all the time for all the people, they were glad anyhow, because club women were working to bring more light and more beauty into the world. They were the missionaries of the twentieth century for all the people, she said.

"We Are Citizens, but"——

"We are citizens," she said, "but many times when we think we are citizens we find that we are only children and idiots. We represent the womanhood and the motherhood of the State and nation and are interested not alone in our own children, but in all the children. We are determined that the women and children in the factories shall be protected and that every child in this country shal. have its right of childhood to which it was born.

Mrs. John Sherman, second vice-president of the General Federation, spoke of the recent board meeting of the General Federation and said that the Federation was now working for national legislation on four subjects, the admission of works of art free, a national Bureau of Child Labor, with a woman at the head of it; the setting aside of the Appalachian Mountain district as a national forest reserve and the prevention of the spread of tuberculosis.

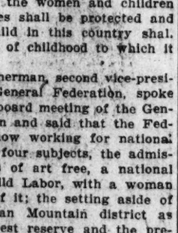

About 800 women are attending the meetings of the federation.

HOME FOR OLD LADIES ON FIRE; INMATES SAVED

Women Employes Carry Helpless Aged Downstairs and Onto the Lawn.

CHIMNEY STARTS BLAZE

Firemen Respond Quickly and Flames Are Subdued With Little Loss.

Women employes of the Home of the Friendless, more generally known as the Old Ladies' Home, at 4431 South Broadway, carried 15 of the 79 inmates downstairs while the building was on fire and filled with smoke Tuesday afternoon.

After being rescued Mrs. Ella Farnhoff, 65 years old, ran back into the burning building to save her pet canary bird. Attendants overtook her and restrained her.

Mrs. Mary Moseley, 80 years old, also re-entered the building and groped her way upstairs to get her most precious earthly possession, a pair of quilts which she had when she was first married.

The rescuers were led by Mrs. Cora Dawson, the matron, and by Miss Jennie Knoll, head diningroom girl, and her assistants, Miss Theresa Straka and Miss Margaret Hollacher.

Fire Started in Chimney.

Mrs. Margaret Bennett, 91 years old, was one of the first of the inmates carried down stairs. Of the others the most helpless were Miss Annie Adams, 65; Miss Sybil Brown, 72, who is blind; Mrs. Mary Jackson, 78, and Miss Anna Meyer, 80.

The fire started near a chimney which leads from the kitchen range. Miss Knoll and Matron Dawson saw smoke coming from the roof at the back of the building. The fire was directly above a third floor room in which bed clothes and other inflammable material are stored.

Miss Knoll ran through the building telling the inmates that there were to be special services in the chapel.

Most of the old women who were able to walk went downstairs without asking questions. A few who noticed the smoke became excited.

Fears for the Inmates.

In the neighborhood the news that the home was on fire caused consternation, as it was feared some of the helpless inmates would be caught in the building, which has no fire escapes.

Once on the first floor, the inmates who could walk were marched out on the spacious lawn and the others were taken to the chapel in the south wing of the building.

Four engine companies responded to an alarm telephoned by Matron Dawson. The fire was confined to the roof and did damage estimated at $150. The flue in which the fire originated was inspected and pronounced safe three weeks ago.

"Fire escapes would be of no service," said Matron Dawson. "The inmates are too old and feeble to use them."

The Home of the Friendless is operated by an organization of society women, of which Mrs. J. G. Chapman of 48 Vandeventer place is president.

THE COME AND SEE SIGN

This sign is permanently attached to the front of the main building of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

What Does This Sign Mean?

It means that public inspection of the Laboratory and methods of doing business is honestly desired. It means that there is nothing about the business which is not "open and above board."

It means that a permanent invitation is extended to anyone to come and verify any and all statements made in the advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It is a purely vegetable compound made from roots and herbs—without drugs.

Come and See.

Do the women of America continually use as much of it as we are told?

Come and See.

Was there ever such a person as Lydia E. Pinkham, and is there any Mrs. Pinkham now to whom sick women are asked to write?

Come and See.

Is the vast private correspondence with sick women conducted by women only, and are the letters kept strictly confidential?

Come and See.

Have they really got letters from over one million one hundred thousand women correspondents?

Come and See.

Have they proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured thousands of these women?

Come and See.

This advertisement is only for doubters. The great army of women who know from their own personal experience that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female ills will still go on using and being benefited by it; but the poor doubting, suffering woman must, for her own sake, be taught confidence, for she also might just as well regain her health.

SAFE RIFLED AS BANK ROBBERS FIGHT CITIZENS

Three Men Hold Town at Bay While Fourth Uses Nitroglycerin.

ESCAPE WITH $1900

Posse Loses Trail From Hurst, Ill., and Bloodhounds Are Following.

HURST, Ill., Oct. 20.—While three men stood off practically the entire population of Hurst by firing their revolvers at everyone in sight, a fourth man fired seven charges of nitroglycerin and finally succeeded in wrecking the safe in the Carterville & Hurst Banking Co.'s office here at 3 o'clock this morning. The battle was kept up while the safe was rifled and continued until the bandits rode out of town with $1900 in cash, a number of Missouri Pacific Railroad pay checks and a quantity of postage stamps.

The banking company also operates several mines and the stolen money had been in the safe here to be used on the next payday. It is supposed that the robbers were men familiar with these conditions.

Explosions Punctuate Battle.

The first explosion awakened several citizens and they rushed out on the street. They were driven back by a volley from the revolvers of the three "lookouts." Explosion followed explosion while the shooting was in progress. The robbers' aim was so accurate that the residents considered it safer to remain in their houses until the bandits had completed their work.

When they attempted to leave the bank building, which had been practically wrecked by the nitroglycerin, another battle occurred. The robbers disappeared, and it is not believed that any of them was wounded.

Bloodhounds Pursuing Robbers.

A posse was formed at daylight and followed the robbers' tracks for a mile, where the trail was lost. Bloodhounds were obtained from Harrisburg and took up the trail where the posse left off. The officers of all nearby towns were notified, and it is considered probable that the men will be captured soon.

The money taken by the robbers consisted chiefly of banknotes. Several hundred dollars in silver was scattered about the building by the force of the explosion.

"WOMAN FRIDAY" CONFRONTS ICE KING IN COURT

broker and at one price. On Oct. 2 of 1905, 2000 shares of Ice changed hands in the same way, except that on them Morse made a small profit.

The first witness was Wesley M. Oler, president of the American Ice Co. Cold as the material in which he trades, with one exception he never skated where the ice was thin. That once was when Stimson tried to show that Morse had forced on Oler 2000 shares of Ice stock at 71, despite Oler's desire to buy no more at that price.

Forced Shares on Him.

He admitted that Morse—to whom he was deeply indebted—had forced the 2000 shares of Ice on him and that when he wished to sell and take up a note of $142,000 given to the National Bank of North America, in payment for the stock, Morse flatly refused to let him do so.

To Assistant District Attorney Wise's query as to whether Oler had ever paid the $142,000 note, the defense raised an objection, declaring it immaterial.

Judge Hough ruled against the prosecution.

Further questioning of Oler both by the prosecution and by former United States District Attorney McFarland, for Morse, brought out the fact that of the $46,000,000 capitalization of the American Ice Co., on Oct. 12, 1906, $33,000,000 was composed of good will, water rights, etc., and that only $13,000,000 was tangible.

Oler's examination ended with his statement that he had reorganized the American Ice Co. because its capitalization was excessive and that he now believed that in its new form a repetition of the $2,000,000 profits of the company in 1906 was not unlikely.

Morse's Clever Secretary.

Miss Katherine A. Wilson, Morse's private secretary, is a pretty young woman, and is said to be one of the cleverest women in Wall street. She is about 28 years old, blonde, small and slender, quiet and refined in appearance. She, it is said, had virtually the entire management and direction of the details of the "Ice King's" intricate affairs.

The revelations concerning the activities of Miss Wilson came in the testimony of Adolph Rado, one of the assistant cashiers of the National Bank of North America.

Another thing brought out which caused a sensation in court, coming on top of the disclosure that hundreds of thousands of dollars of depositors' money in the Bank of North America had been lost on notes signed by a 19-year-old $12-a-week clerk, was that the ice stock put up as collateral against the dummy loans was juggled in a remarkable way.

If You Don't Know "Sealshipt" You Don't Know Oysters.

"Sealshipt" Oysters are the most delicious and wholesome of sea foods. If you do not like oysters it is because you have never had oysters with the actual oyster flavor. You are accustomed to tin oysters, packed in water and ice. Water bloats and bleaches oysters.

"Sealshipt" Oysters are shucked into steel containers, then sealed and packed with ice around the containers. They keep fresh and firm as the day they were tonged. You get the unique flavor that suggests the salt sea in "Sealshipt" Oysters—and in "Sealshipt" only. Solid meats, too—no melted ice or doubtful water for your money.

Order "Sealshipts" for dinner today. You can see them at our stores in the Pure White Porcelain Cases which bear the Blue "Sealshipt" Trade-Mark. They are delicious.

FRAUD CLEWS ON DEMOCRATIC OFFICE PAPER

Convicted Precinct Committeeman Had Fraudulent Names on List in Pocket.

TWO YEARS' SENTENCE

Arthur Thavanot Found Guilty and Other Trials Are Called.

The seizure by Circuit Attorney Sager of lists of fictitious names written on envelopes of the Democratic City Committee and letterheads of the House of Delegates and City Street Department, found in the pockets of Arthur Thavanot, Democratic Precinct Committeeman in the Fifteenth Ward, at the time of his arrest for fraudulent registration, has created additional consternation among the election crooks.

Thavanot was convicted Monday by a jury in Judge Shields' court and his punishment fixed at two years in the Penitentiary.

These names, about 50 in number, were introduced in evidence at the trial of Thavanot. An envelope of the Democratic City Committee contained the names, "Same Alberts" and "John Ross," which Thavanot and Patrick Clancy registered on the books in the Tenth Precinct of the Fifteenth ward at 1903 Olive street. Clancy has also been convicted of fraudulent registration and sentenced to five years in the Penitentiary.

Mr. Sager will begin the trial Wednesday of Thomas McGrath, Walter F. Guilford, William Gamache and John Sullivan, primary election judges and clerks of the Second Precinct of the Third Ward, charged in indictments with a false count and wrongful return of the ballots. These will be the first of the election judges and clerks tried for this offense. Demurrers to the indictments have been overruled by Judge Fisher.

William Tiernan, charged with fraudulently registering as Frank Clay in the Eighth Precinct of the Fifteenth Ward at 815 North Twenty-first street, will be tried Thursday in Judge Shields' court.

Circuit Attorney Sager believes that the assault on Harry V. English, one of the election clerks of the Tenth Precinct, was the direct result of a desperate effort to save Thavanot from conviction. Notwithstanding the fact that English was attacked in his cigar store at 2020 Olive street, and that he defended himself by shooting Clancy twice, he testified against Thavanot.

Detectives Found Lists.

Thavanot lives at the home of James J. McFadden, Democratic City Committeeman of the Fifteenth Ward, and registered from McFadden's residence in the Sixth Precinct of that ward. He registered there early in the morning of Sept. 14 and then went on his rounds of other polling places. He was caught at 4 p. m. just after he had registered at 1903 Olive street. The detectives took from his pockets the tell-tale lists and returned them over to Circuit Attorney Sager.

When Thavanot registered under his own name he gave his age as 33, his birthplace as Texas, his occupation as a plumber, and stated that he had lived in St. Louis 30 years. When he registered at 1903 Olive street he gave his name as Sam Alberts, residence as 2100 Olive street, age as 28, occupation as a laborer. The name and other facts corresponded exactly to the notations on the envelope found in his pocket.

Registered From Vacant Lot.

Besides the names of Alberts and Rose on the envelope was the name of D. Hayes, residence 1713 Olive street, occupation laborer, age 38. This name was found on the registration books of the Sixth Precinct of the ward. Whether it was put there by Thavanot the Circuit Attorney does not know. The number on Wash street is a vacant lot, and the attention of the judges and clerks of election was called to this fact while registration was in progress.

The next morning when the registration books were opened it was found that some one had changed the address to 1813 Wash street by converting the 7 into an 8. The name was stricken from the books by the clerks during revision.

The evidence against Thavanot was so direct and positive that Circuit Attorney Sager was surprised that he was given the minimum punishment. Election judges and clerks, English, John C. George, Louis F. Emig and Adolph Caspar and Sergt. Mullin and Detectives Labarge all testified that they saw Thavanot register under the name of Sam Alberts. Max C. Klein of 2100 Olive street testified that Thavanot came into his saloon and asked if he could register from that number.

Klein said he told Thavanot he could register from the place if he lived there. Klein testified that Thavanot had never lived at his place.

Thavanot was the Sixth Precinct committeeman. Throughout the trial Thavanot sat by the side of his attorney, former Judge C. Orrick Bishop, taking only a passive interest in his case. Not a witness was introduced in his behalf, and he did not take the stand to deny the charge against him.

Sager Makes Bitter Speech.

In his speech to the jury Circuit Attorney Sager bitterly arraigned Thavanot as a "rat and a thief." Mr. Sager's enthusiasm was so great that Judge Shields had to caution him to be less severe.

Thavanot's conviction is the seventh successful election fraud prosecution for Circuit Attorney Sager since the August primaries and September registration. He has been successful in every case that has been tried, getting two verdicts for the maximum punishment of five years in the Penitentiary.

POLICEMAN IN WEST END KILLS NEGRO PROWLER

They Fought for Possession of Revolver in Dark Alley.

CUDDIHEE TELLS STORY

Took Weapon From Man Who Wounded Himself and Fired Second Shot.

After accidentally shooting himself in the abdomen, during a struggle for the revolver of Policeman Thomas F. Cuddihee of the Newstead Avenue Station, Louis Allison, a negro, 50 years old, was shot through the brain and killed by the policeman in an alley east from Newstead avenue, between McPherson and Maryland avenues, at 12:30 a. m. Tuesday.

Cuddihee's report stated that he had questioned the negro, whose actions were suspicious, and that when the negro said he was going home, the officer accompanied him to verify that statement.

"The negro told me he reached his home through the alley," Cuddihee told a Post-Dispatch reporter. "We had gone 150 feet into the alley when he turned on me, called me a vile name and struck me. We clinched and, the next thing I knew, he had my revolver and was jabbing the muzzle against my abdomen.

"I twisted his wrist so that the weapon was against his own body and he made a convulsive movement, pulling the trigger and shooting himself.

"He relaxed his hold on the weapon and I jerked it away, shooting upward with the gun, about on a level with my waist. The bullet struck the negro in the jaw and entered his brain. I think he was dead when he struck the ground.

Struggle Was Short.

"I called for a patrol wagon and the the body was taken first to the Dispensary and thence to the Morgue."

Cuddihee was asked if he thought it necessary to shoot the negro a second time. He said:

"The struggle lasted only about a minute. I was taken completely by surprise when the negro attacked me and in the excitement I hardly realized that I was shooting. I had not intended to draw my gun at all until I discovered he had slipped it away from me."

Allison's body was identified at the Morgue by James D. Lucas of 4370 McPherson avenue, who said the negro had done occasional small jobs for him, being hired Monday to go for some auto lamps which were being repaired.

Oscar Anderson, a negro living at 5549 Manchester avenue, said that at times Allison had occupied a room at his house, but that he had not seen him for a week.

NATURAL GAS A BIG SUCCESS, MANY CITIES TELL POST-DISPATCH

Mayors of Communities Where It Has Been Tested Give the Results.

CHEAPER AND CLEANER

Great Reduction in Bills, With Service Satisfactory at All Seasons.

Mayors of cities in which natural gas has been tried say that it has been a good thing for their cities.

Appreciating that the best information on the subject of natural gas is to be had from officials of cities where it has been in use, the Post-Dispatch sent a list of questions to the mayors of a number of such cities, requesting that answers be telegraphed.

The questions were:

Is natural gas superior to and cheaper than manufactured gas?

Is the supply adequate at all seasons?

Is gas at 35 cents a thousand feet cheap enough for manufacturing purposes?

What percentage in reduction in bills has there been since its introduction?

Following are the answers received:

By Tom L. Johnson,
(Mayor of Cleveland, O.)

NATURAL gas installed here has been immensely satisfactory. It is superior to any manufactured gas we know anything about. The price is 30 cents a thousand for natural; illuminating gas, 75 cents a thousand. Service has been satisfactory at all seasons, except first winter, when there were a good many breaks in newly constructed lines, 208 miles long to West Virginia. Gas at 35 cents cannot be used by large manufacturers. In small homes there has been a saving of probably one-half the cost of coal and illuminating gas for light and heat.

By T. J. Crittenden, Jr.
(Mayor of Kansas City, Mo.)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 20.

THE introduction of natural gas into Kansas City has been a great comfort, luxury and saving to our people. At the rate we are now paying (25 cents) natural gas at my home for lighting purposes costs about $1.50, as against $6 for the artificial gas. It makes a better light than an artificial gas.

It was so popular in our city last winter that the demand was more than the company could reasonably fill, which at times caused some dissatisfaction. The pipe lines have now practically doubled, and I feel absolutely satisfied that full relief will be granted against the conditions of last winter.

For heating purposes in hot air, steam and hot water plants in the home it is a complete success, and if judiciously used, taking everything into consideration, is cheaper than coal and it has none of the annoyances of coal. If the company that furnishes gas to St. Louis sees to it that its pipe lines have sufficient capacity there is no reason why it will not work satisfactorily every day of the year.

Many of our manufacturing plants use it, but it will not be used universally by manufacturers unless a price is given considerably lower than that granted for domestic purposes.

I do not believe, at 35 cents a thousand, it can be used to any considerable extent by the manufacturers when we take into account the present prices of coal. I do not think the city of St. Louis would make a mistake in granting a franchise for lighting purposes at 35 cents, especially if a lower rate could be secured for heating purposes to the domestic users.

Our citizens pay the same for lighting that they do for heating purposes. Our franchise could have been bettered in this particular.

By George W. Guthrie,
(Mayor of Pittsburg, Pa.)

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 20.

I BELIEVE that with large enough mains buried below frost line, natural gas can be served in a satisfactory manner at all seasons.

Manufactured gas is not used to any extent in this city for heating purposes. Natural gas is in general use for domestic purposes. Two of the companies supply it for 27 cents per thousand feet, less 2 cents for prompt payment. The third company furnishes it for 30 cents, less 2½ per cent for prompt payment.

As a general rule manufacturers estimate that natural gas at 10 cents is the equivalent of coal at $1.50 a ton, where it is handled by hand, or $2 where it is handled by stokers. In this they take into consideration the fact that with gas there is no ash to be disposed of.

By A. P. Clayton,
Mayor of St. Joseph, Mo.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 20.

NATURAL gas is satisfactory for heating, satisfactory for steam purposes, and satisfactory for small manufacturing plants using gas engines. It is not as cheap as coal for heating, but is cleaner. Thirty-five cents is too high for manufacturing. I am informed some have contracted as low as 10 cents, with guarantee to use a certain quantity.

By A. R. Turnbull,
(Mayorof Canton, O.)

CANTON, O., Oct. 20.

WE have had natural gas in this city for 10 years. The first five years we paid 25 cents per thousand feet, and for the next five years 30 cents per thousand feet.

The franchise of the East Ohio Gas Co. expired in September and our Council is now making an effort to have the company furnish gas to our city for 25 cents per thousand feet.

I would state that natural gas is a very satisfactory fuel in our city, both for domestic use and manufacturing purposes, and I will state that the service is very satisfactory. I consider natural gas at 35 cents per thousand feet cheaper than any fuel that can be procured in our section of the country for domestic purposes.

We also have a rate for the manufacturers which depends greatly on the amount used. We have a rate of 2 per cent off if paid on or before the tenth of each month. We consider natural gas far superior to manufactured gas.

By M. Liebel, Jr.
(Mayor of Erie, Pa.)

ERIE, Pa., Oct. 20.

ERIE is not far from Pennsylvania's great gas field and is served by the Pennsylvania Gas Co. with natural gas at 30 cents per thousand cubic feet net. Manufactured gas is 80 cents for fuel and $1 for lighting. The rates for manufactured gas were materially reduced upon the introduction of natural gas.

Natural gas is used only in small factories equipped with gas engines, though this use is growing. The supply fails at infrequent intervals, but consequent embarrassment really amounts to but little.

Natural gas is superior because supplied at less cost. I think it very desirable that any franchises granted be so drawn that the city may compel reasonable extensions.

By William Green,
(Mayor of Topeka, Kan.)

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 20.

NATURAL gas is superior to manufactured gas for heating or illuminating. It is satisfactory as installed here when adequate supply can be furnished. Gas at 35 cents is not cheap enough for use in manufacturing. Topeka pays 25 cents for domestic use and 10 cents for use in manufacturing.

By Sam Carlson,
(Mayor of Jamestown, N. Y.)

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 20.

NATURAL gas at 27 cents is satisfactory here; don't know anything about manufactured gas. There has been some dissatisfaction at times because of shortage in supply. Thirty-five-cent gas would be expensive for manufacturing. We are considering the installation of municipal steam heating.

By J. H. Graham,
(Mayor of Wichita, Kan.)

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 20.

OUR experience with natural gas is very satisfactory. No trouble with pressure any season, as happens at some places. We consider it preferable at same price. Residence rate, 35 cents, net; manufacturers' scale down to 10 cents, according to quantity used.

Natural gas at these rates has replaced artificial at $1.35 and coal at $2 to $7. Reduction in lighting and cooking averaged 75 per cent. Thirty-five cents too high for manufacturing rate. We are 100 miles from gas fields.

By A. W. Craver,
(Mayor of Youngstown, O.)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Oct. 20.

NATURAL gas is satisfactory; superior to artificial all seasons of the year. The cost here is 30 cents for domestic use; for manufacturing it costs 13 cents on account of the large quantity furnished. Thirty-five cents is too high for manufacturing, as about 20,000 cubic feet of gas equals one ton of clean coal. Not much gas is used for boilers here, as 13 cents per thousand is higher than coal.

By George J. Baker,
(Mayor of Lawrence, Kan.)

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 20.

NATURAL gas as installed in this city is satisfactory. I am not an expert, but believe it to be at least the equal of manufactured gas. I consider the use of natural gas at 35 cents a thousand for manufacturing purposes impracticable. Service here is satisfactory at all seasons.

By William T. Sawyer,
(Mayor of Akron, O.)

AKRON, O., Oct. 20.

NATURAL gas as installed in this city is very satisfactory and much cheaper than artificial. The service is satisfactory at all seasons. In the past 10 years the gas has been shut off several times on account of breaks in the main line, but never longer than 24 hours.

Natural gas is used here by many manufacturers at 10 cents per thousand. The superintendent of a large rubber company told me that he had refused 10-cent gas because soft coal at $1.90 per ton was cheaper. Our City Council has just passed a 10-year extension franchise at 20 cents per thousand. The old price was 30 cents.

M. LIEBEL JR., MAYOR OF ERIE, PA.: Natural gas is superior to manufactured gas because it is supplied at less cost.

WILLIAM GREEN, MAYOR OF TOPEKA, KAN.: Natural gas is superior to manufactured gas for heating and illuminating.

SAM CARLSON, MAYOR OF JAMESTOWN, N. Y.: Natural gas at 27 cents is satisfactory here.

J. H. GRAHAM, MAYOR OF WICHITA, KAN.: Our experience with natural gas is very satisfactory; we consider it preferable at the same price.

A. W. CARVER, MAYOR OF YOUNGSTOWN, O.: Natural gas is satisfactory and superior to artificial gas at all seasons of the year.

GEORGE A. BARKER, MAYOR OF LAWRENCE, KAN.: Natural gas as installed in this city is satisfactory at all seasons.

WILLIAM T. SAWYER, MAYOR OF AKRON, O.: Natural gas as installed in this city is very satisfactory and much cheaper than artificial, and the service is satisfactory at all seasons.

A. P. CLAYTON, MAYOR OF ST. JOSEPH, MO.: Natural gas is satisfactory for heating, steam purposes and small manufacturing plants.

L. MARKBREIT, MAYOR OF CINCINNATI, O.: Natural gas is superior to and cheaper than artificial gas, and the supply is adequate at all seasons.

Killed at "Billy" Lee's.

Joseph Harris, a negro, 28 years old, was shot and killed by another negro in front of "Billy" Lee's resort on the Levee at 6 p. m. Monday, following a quarrel that arose over the discussion of election fraud cases. Frank Townsend, a negro, 22 years old, of 1024 High street, is under arrest, charged with the killing.

"Billy" Lee's place has been the scene of many killings and affrays.

COUNTY COURT WITHHOLDS O. K. ON FRANCHISES

Possible Grants to Light and Suburban Companies May Be Rescinded.

Yielding to public dissatisfaction with the granting of unlimited franchises to the King and Suburban Electric Light companies in St. Louis County, the County Court is withholding its approval of the minutes of the meeting of the court at which the franchises were granted.

It was expected that the minutes would be approved Monday afternoon, but action was deferred.

The franchises were granted by the votes of Judges Rannels and Kassebaum. Presiding Judge Wiethaup voted against the grant, contending that a maximum rate should be fixed. Judge Rannels now sides with Judge Wiethaup to the extent of saying he hopes a maximum rate will be fixed.

Judge Wiethaup, however, is convinced that the damage has been done and that the court has no power to fix a maximum rate. He says that no matter whether the minutes are approved or not, the franchise will stand. He bases his opinion on the decision of Judge Ryors in the case of Charles Cooney, a Wellston saloon keeper, who was granted a dramshop license. The minutes were not approved, but Judge Ryors held that this was not necessary.

R. H. Stevens, an attorney, holds that the court has the right to revoke its action any time during the present term of the court.

Never Took a Holiday.

From the London Daily Mail.

George Hayward, aged 91, who has just died at Needham Market, lived nearly all his life in the same house. He never had a day's holiday and never saw the sea. Hayward was formerly in business as a butcher, and he was in the habit of wearing an apron at church on Sundays beneath his frock coat.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

What makes a woman proud of her husband is for him to be of her.

Men are all cut off the same piece of cloth, but women trim them up to seem different.

How Deaf Are Being Made to Hear

WONDERFUL ACHIEVEMENTS OF TWENTIETH CENTURY when deaf man is awakened by ticking alarm clock and woman deaf for forty-three years hears almost perfectly are explained.

A. R. Barnes, foreman in a printing office, living at 4266 Cook avenue, in a testimonial says that he could not hear a clock or watch tick but was awakened after doctoring with Phenomenal Kraus' specialists at 823 Chestnut street, to hear the clock in his room ticking. He was so astonished, he says, that he got up to see if he really heard the clock and found that it was true.

Mrs. Josephine McCauley, of No. 16 South Broadway, in a sworn statement says that she was deaf for forty-three years, that six months ago she heard of the many deaf people being made to hear by Phenomenal Kraus' specialists and went to see them with the result that she hears almost as well as anyone possibly could.

At the offices of Phenomenal Kraus it was stated that these cases were among hundreds where deafness has been cured after years standing and when other physicians had given up hope for a cure. Consultation is given free to determine whether or not a case may be cured and none is accepted unless a cure is possible.

The Call of Nature

When nature is abused she first calls lightly and then in trumpet tones to the thoughtful man to "get right."

A slight "touch of indigestion," feeling "a little indisposed," "not so well" etc., are the first whisperings of trouble—the warnings.

One can then turn to

Grape-Nuts

and be sure of good results. It is Nature's food improved. Worn out tissues are renewed, weakened digestive organs are strengthened. Good health is quickly wooed and won. Coupled with these certain good results the pleasure of eating Grape-Nuts is a pleasure-plus.

DAME NATURE HINTS
When the Food is Not Suited.

When Nature gives her signal that something is wrong it is generally with the food; the old Dame is always faithful and one should act at once.

To put off the change is to risk that which may be irreparable. An Arizona man says:

"For years I could not safely eat any breakfast. I tried all kinds of breakfast foods, but they were all soft, starchy messes, which gave me distressing headaches. I drank strong coffee too, which appeared to benefit me at the time, but added to the headaches afterwards. Toast and coffee were no better, for I found the toast very constipating.

"A friend persuaded me to quit the old coffee and the starchy breakfast foods, and use Postum and Grape-Nuts instead. I shall never regret taking his advice. I began using them three months ago.

"The change they have worked in me is wonderful. I now have no more of the distressing sensations in my stomach after eating, and I never have any headaches. I have gained 12 pounds in weight and feel better in every way. Grape-Nuts make a delicious as well as a nutritious dish, and I find that Postum is easily digested and never produces dyspepsia symptoms."

NEW WITNESS IS FOUND FOR LUEMAN MANN

Alleged to Have Declared He Escorted Mrs. Thompson to Death Scene.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—A new witness in the Florence Thompson murder case was discovered last night by whose testimony Mann's attorney is said to expect to prove that Lueman C. Mann was not the woman's slayer.

This latest witness is Charles McCormick Clawater, who, it is said, was employed until recently on a Milwaukee newspaper.

He made a statement that it was he who accompanied Mrs. Thompson to the Michigan avenue rooming house in which she was murdered. It was Mrs. Thompson, declares Clawater, who suggested that he register under the name of "J. H. Raymond."

Clawater was taken to 1242 Michigan avenue and pointed out the house as the one he and Mrs. Thompson had entered on June 13.

Edward V. Hannas, a chauffeur, who took Clawater to the scene of the murder, says the latter wept after pointing to the house where Mrs. Thompson was slain.

Clawater was taken to a hotel by Hannas, where he will be kept until Inspector Wheeler can question him today.

Clawater is about 30 years old. He says he did not learn of the murder of Mrs. Thompson until after Mann's arrest.

UNCLE SAM'S COCKROACHES

Departments at Washington Find Simple Way to Kill the Bugs.

Spread on a piece of paper and put on shelves, in drawers or in the sinks, Stearns' Electric Paste kills off rats, mice and other vermin.

U. S. Government officials, who buy hundreds of pounds, say 'Stearns' Electric Rat and Roach Paste is the only one that answers the purpose of the Sanitary Department." The fact that Stearns' Electric Paste has been made for thirty years with constantly increasing sales each year is proof of its superior merit and efficiency.

GIRL TRIES TO END LIFE; TELLS OF SLAIN MAN

Rescued From River, Young Woman Says Sweetheart Killed Himself.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Prevented from jumping into the East River a second time after she had been rescued off a pier in Williamsburg, a comely girl of 20 was partially revived and her rescuers heard her murmur: "I have done what a man would do. You'd better go to 115 Green Point avenue. There's a man dead there. He shot himself."

All haste was made to the address. Policemen knocked at the door of the dwelling. Receiving no response, they forced the door. In the parlor lay a dead man. He was stretched in front of a mirror and there was a bullet wound over his right ear.

When quieted with sedatives, the girl said:

"Eddie McDonald and I had been keeping company for some months and finally he promised to marry me. My name is Nellie Waldren. I told Eddie it was imperative that we be married, but he made excuses. I bought a revolver and determined to shoot myself if Eddie did not keep his promise. I went to his house and found him alone. He said he could not support a wife and we quarreled.

"I took the revolver from the bosom of my waist and told Eddie I was going to kill myself. He said he was tired of life, wrested the pistol from me, pressed it to his head and pulled the trigger. I made up my mind to throw myself into the river."

There were no powder marks on McDonald's head, as would have been the case if the pistol was discharged at close range. Miss Waldren was arrested on a charge of attempted suicide.

While detectives were in the Green Point avenue house, a sister of the dead man rushed in, accompanied by her father. She said she had been in the kitchen when the Waldren girl appeared and demanded to see McDonald. The couple went to the parlor and then came the pistol shots. Miss McDonald ran into the room and saw Miss Waldren holding McDonald's head in her lap. Miss McDonald ran out of the house to find her father and in her absence Miss Waldren disappeared.

TAFT DISMISSED GEN. DAVIS WHO HIT AT CROMWELL

Harriman's Lawyer Shown Up for Declaring False Dividend on Panama Railroad.

ALREADY SOLD TO U. S.

Davis Repeated Criticism and Was Summarily Declared Out of Position.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—William Nelson Cromwell, counsel for E. H. Harriman, whose Southern Pacific and Union Pacific roads will lose heavily if an Isthmian Canal is ever built, and the lawyer who sold the French Panama Canal Co. to the United States for $40,000,000, was, it is said, in his capacity of chief adviser on canal matters to President Roosevelt and Secretary of War Taft, responsible for the removal, under most humiliating conditions, of Gen. George W. Davis, member of the Canal Commission and first Governor of the Canal Zone.

Gov. Davis had rendered services of inestimable value to the country, according to military experts during and following the Spanish-American War. He was first Governor of Porto Rico, then military and civil Governor of the Philippines, and out of the chaos there brought order and good government.

Gen. Davis, as Governor of the Canal Zone, had supervision over the Panama Railroad, which was part of the property turned over to the United States as a result of the purchase.

Davis Criticised Cromwell.

In going over the affairs of the Panama Railroad, Mr. Davis discovered that, after the United States had agreed to buy all of the property of the French Canal Co. for $40,000,000 and while the title was being examined, William Nelson Cromwell and his fellow directors and stockholders of the Panama Railroad, declared and paid to themselves a large dividend out of the funds of the company which had not been earned during the preceding year, and which, it is alleged, had been set aside for repairs on the road and the steamships it owned.

Gen. David held that this money morally, if not legally, belonged to the United States, as this Government had to at once spend several hundred thousands of dollars to make repairs which this fund should have defrayed. It was held that the money being in the treasury of the company at the time the United States contracted for the purchase, it was as much the property of this Government as cars, locomotives and roadbed.

In a report he made to his fellow-members of the Isthmian Commission, Gen. Davis devoted considerable attention to exposing what he regarded as questionable methods on the part of Cromwell in depleting the treasury of the Panama road after its sale to the United States had been agreed upon.

Davis' Criticism Squelched.

These adverse references to Cromwell in an official report which was to become a public document incensed the New York lawyer greatly, it is said, and also brought Secretary Taft and President Roosevelt to his rescue. Gen. Davis was arbitrarily ordered to eliminate from his report all of the offensive references to Cromwell.

He was told that what had happened prior to the actual acquisition of the canal properties by this Government did not come within his scope and that the matter did not belong in the report.

Obedient to the orders of his superiors, the old soldier did as he was told, and took out the reference which had so offended Cromwell, and the mutilated report was placed on file. Then Gen. Davis committed a great sin in the eyes of Cromwell, Taft and Roosevelt.

There is an army regulation which calls on all army officers to report to their superiors anything which comes under their observation and which they believe should become known to their government.

Rule Applied to Davis.

This rule applies to retired officers as well as those in active service. Knowing this rule, Gen. Davis, in his capacity as a retired officer, but still subject to army regulations, made a detailed report to the Secretary of War of the very matters which he had been compelled to cut out of his report to the Isthmian Commission. That report had to be received, but pains were taken to keep it from the public, and it was pigeonholed in the archives of the War Department.

That brought about the undoing of Gen. Davis. Soon after he had made this report Secretary Taft wrote the cablegram which dismissed him as a member of the Canal Commission and also as Governor of the canal zone.

That there was basis for Gen. Devis' criticism of the looting of the treasury of the Panama road is shown by a statement made to the United States Senate by the late Senator John T. Morgan when he wanted that body to punish Cromwell for his failure to answer questions about the American syndicate which was interested in the French canal company and other matters.

GINGER ALE BURIED 45 YEARS

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—On a hill just below Twin Lights, at Atlantic Highlands, N. J., Levi Maxon yesterday unearthed a case of ginger ale which had been buried there during the Civil War. The ale is in good condition, but is very strong.

Efforts to find a bottle of whisky buried in the hill at the same time by Bill Parker have been unsuccessful.

ST. LOUIS TOO HARD TO PLEASE? NAY, SAY PLAYERS

John Drew Denies Rumor That, Disgruntled, He Will Not Return Here.

VIEWS OF OTHER STARS

St. Louis Is in Missouri and, Therefore, Must Be Shown, They Agree.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Are the theater audiences of St. Louis cold? Why do the big managers when arranging the itinerary for a show always mark the engagement at St. Louis in brackets?

Why has St. Louis the reputation in the greenroom of being one of the hardest cities to please, as far as theatrical entertainments go?

Drop into slang and the answer comes readily—St. Louis has to be shown. Of half a dozen or more stars whose personal opinions were sought, each one came forward with unstinted praise for St. Louisans, but in doing so revealed excellent reasons why theatrical managers have a wholesome respect for the playgoers there. St. Louis is unique, they say, among the list of road bookings. One reason is that the advance agent is out of a job as soon as he strikes the town. He may talk until he is blue in the face and write columns of laudatory articles and cover the town with posters depicting the show as the "best ever," but very little good it does. A critical audience will witness the first performance, and, if it is a good show, the public soon knows it. If it does not reach that level which the St. Louis critics consider necessary in order to be rated first-class, the manager might as well pack up the scenery and bundle the company off to some city where the advance agent has more success and where the people are willing to accept the Chicago and New York verdicts.

Drew and Hackett Talk.

Rumors reached the Great White Way recently that John Drew, who is appearing in "Jack Straw" at the Empire Theater, had said that he would not return to St. Louis after this season unless he finds the audiences there more appreciative. Seen today, Mr. Drew said that, quite to the contrary, St. Louis was one of his pet show towns and that he had never received any but the most cordial treatment there. He denied that he would not appear there after this season.

James K. Hackett, who has just completed an engagement at the Hackett Theater here in "The Crisis" and "The Prisoner of Zenda," said that he had a high regard for St. Louis audiences.

"While the patrons of the drama in St. Louis are keenly critical," said he, "when a play pleases them they show as much warmth in their appreciation as the theater-goers in any city in the country. Only last August I appeared at the Suburban Garden in repertoire, intending to play an engagement of three weeks. The treatment I received was so gratifying that I remained in the city five weeks."

Views of Lillian Russell and Others.

"St. Louis has so often made me feel that its people like me that I love them collectively," said Lillian Russell, who is playing in "Wildfire" at the Liberty Theater. "I have often played St. Louis, and I have yet to feel that the people there were not as quick to appreciate the good points of a performance as audiences in any other city. In the reception of comic operas and plays with which I have been connected I can't say that I found them different from theater-goers the world over."

Maclyn Arbuckle, the star of "The Round Up," says: "They know mighty well what they want in St. Louis, and if any good gets by them unnoticed you will have to prov it to me. Personally, I confess that as a lawyer and politician, they let me slip on my way without blocking Olive street at any time but, as an actor, modesty forbids that I should do justice to the place, for so many grateful recollections rush in when St. Louis is recalled, that I'm liable to be 'loced' saying nice things about the people there. I have always found St. Louisans glad to be kind to players and they know a good performance or a good play when they see it. In sizing up St. Louis bear this in mind—it is in Missouri."

Louise Gunning, who is appearing in "Marcelle" at the Casino, says she is looking forward eagerly to her first starring engagement.

"I have been in St. Louis a number of times," said Miss Gunning, "and whatever managers may think of the city as a place where dramatic offering run serious risk of 'falling down,' I know from my own experience that the audiences love good music and good singing."

St. Louis Demands Good Productions.

Lulu Glaser in "Mlle. Mischief," at the Lyric Theater, declares that the theater-going public of St. Louis has been grossly wronged by the unfavorable comment of some stars.

"I think nothing but personal disappointment could prompt any player to call St. Louis 'the worst show town in America,'" said Miss Glaser. "It is, of course, true that many productions have met with cool receptions in St. Louis, but I think the explanation is not difficult to find. The fact is that St. Louis audiences are discriminating and are not too easily satisfied. They demand at home performances in every way equal to the productions made on Broadway."

NEW BARITONE TRIED OUT ON AMERICAN BILL

Ignazio Papanini Nervous, but Sang Well—Other Vaudeville Offerings.

The new bill opening at the American yesterday possessed special interest owing to the "trying out" of an Italian baritone, Ignazio Papanini, whom it is the intention of the Oppenheimers to send on tour.

Sig. Papanini has a powerful and resonant voice, with some good robust tenor notes and possessing considerable sweetness. He was very nervous at his first appearance, but so acquitted himself as to win the house's favor, especially in his singing of a "Traviata" number and of "La Paloma," the famous Spanish-Mexican love song.

Winona Winter, returned to vaudeville, is the most pleasing feature of the new bill, appearing in attractive songs and a clever imitation of Vernon, the ventriloquist. Other acts are Frank Work and Reinhold Ower, European comedy gymnasts; Maurice Cooke, eccentric acrobat; Agnes Mahr, assisted by Flora Mahr, in imitations of stage favorites; Walter Montague and company, in an entertaining sketch; Frank White and Lew Simmons, in a blackface character act entitled "On the Band Wagon;" Armstrong and Clark, introducing their own songs, and the Gibson Girls, late of "The Belle of Mayfair," the bill's topline feature.

COLUMBIA'S NEW BILL.

There is plenty of action, singing and dancing in "The Boy, the Girl and the Count," the one-act farce in which Harry Clay Blaney, Kitty Wolf Blaney and company are appearing at the Columbia this week. It affords Blaney and his wife opportunity to do some clever work in singing and dancing, but has nothing else to commend it.

A-Ba-Be's Pictorial Postcards, a series of living pictures and artistic poses, is the real novelty of the new bill and is a close competitor for the topline honors.

The Fredericka Trio, in an operatic review, sing some of the old opera favorites in a very pleasing way. Enrico Oromote possesses a baritone voice better than is usually heard on the vaudeville stage.

Others on the bill are Pertina, danseuse, in artistic toe dancing; the Farrell-Taylor Company, in a minstrel diversion; John Hathaway and Emma Siegel, in the "Soubrette and the Bellboy;" May Boley, in clever singing and burlesque characterizations; the Patty Frank troupe of gymnasts, the kinodrome, and not the least pleasing of the evening's program is the overture from "William Tell," by the Columbia orchestra.

PLAYGOERS' GUIDE.

CENTURY — "The Alaskan." Musical play with lines so dull as fatally to handicap a rather pleasing score.

OLYMPIC—Rose Stahl in "The Chorus Lady." Splendid production by star and strong company of a modern classic in slang.

GARRICK—"The Wolf." Exciting melodrama, well played by clever company.

GRAND—"The Wizard of Oz." Fantastic spectacular musical play, well presented.

IMPERIAL—"In at the Finish." Lincoln J. Carter melodrama. Full of thrills.

HAVLIN'S — "The Little Organ Grinder." Heart-interest melodrama with long-suffering heroine, happy at last.

AMERICAN—Bright vaudeville bill, with Gibson Girls as topliners.

COLUMBIA — Good vaudeville, with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clay Blaney as topliners.

STANDARD—Tiger Lilies. Burlesque and vaudeville.

GAYETY — New Transatlantic Burlesquers. Burlesque and vaudeville.

THIS CHURCH WILL LISTEN TO YOUR TROUBLES AND HEAL YOU

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The problem of relieving every kind of human woe or ill endured by anybody who wants to explain what it is has been undertaken by Immanuel Baptist Church, under the leadership of the Rev. Johnston Myers.

"Comfort meetings," which are held daily in the church, are devoted to the work, and in the course of a few days have acquired an average attendance of 50 or 60 persons, all of whom feel that their afflictions are more than they can bear. To give them individual attention, if they want it, a staff of trained assistants has been gathered by Dr. Myers.

In addition to this, a physician and a lawyer, both men of standing, have been retained by the church, and form a part of the consulting staff.

The meetings are held every morning, with singing and prayer in the lecture room of the church. A breakfast is given free to everyone who is hungry.

When the case is past the comprehension of any of the "staff" it is referred to the physician, who will not charge a fee unless directed by the church to do so, or to the lawyer, who works under like agreement. The church pays the bill where individuals do not.

GUS ROGERS IS DEAD AFTER A SHORT ILLNESS

Comedian's St. Louis Relative Notified of Fatal Attack of Appendicitis.

HE MADE MANY LAUGH

Methods of the Famous "Brothers" Explained in an Interview.

David Leon Solomon, a broker of 5111 McPherson avenue, has been notified of the death in New York of his cousin, Gustave Solomon, better known as Gus Rogers, a member of the Rogers Brothers stage comedy team.

Rogers died at his home in New York of appendicitis. His wife, Maude Raymond of the vaudeville stage, and two children survive him.

Gus Rogers assumed that name when he went on the stage. He was about 36 years old when he died. Mrs. Fannie L. Solomon, who lives with her son at 5111 McPherson avenue, is a sister-in-law of Gus Rogers' father.

Gus Rogers was one of the best-known low comedians on the American stage. The brothers, Max and Gus, started their stage career in Austin & Stone's Music Hall in Boston in 1889. They did a German dialect and knock-about act.

Gus Rogers was said to be worth $300,000, most of which is invested in theater property in this city.

Comedian's Methods Explained.

When the Rogers Brothers played an engagement at the Olympic Theater in January, 1906, the Post-Dispatch dramatic critic had an interesting talk with Gus Rogers, in which the funny little comedian explained how he and Max, his brother, originated the "line of talk" that brought laughs from their audiences.

"Being foolish successfully," he said, "is one of the fiercest propositions a man can find himself up against. Our nonsensical conversations may sound easy to you people out in front, but my brother and I have been working hard at them for a long time before you hear them and we've put 'em to every possible test to make sure that they'll catch on with an audience. Under their seeming absurdity they've got to have real fun in 'em, and be up to date and crisp and snappy—talk that'll make you laugh before you have time to think.

Originated Their Own "Talks."

"And no other man can originate our talks for us—we've got to work it out ourselves. It's the Rogers brothers' line of talk, peculiar to us, and we have our own peculiar way of getting it up. We always try to have some sort of central theme to hang the talk on, after which each of us cudgels his brains for the talk. I'll try my line on Max and he'll try his on me, and we'll rehearse 'em and endeavor to figure out just how it will sound to an audience—and that's the hardest problem of all. Say—if any man can tell how an audience will receive a play, a line of talk or a stage stunt, he's got a salary of $25,000 a year waiting for him from a dozen managers in New York right now, just for his judgment. But there's no such man living.

Some "Gags" Come by Accident.

"Sometimes, after rehearsing a new conversation for weeks, we reach the conclusion that it isn't just right and then we shovel the whole thing to one side and start in on a new idea. Bright, ridiculous lines are what we want, and they come to us suddenly, almost by accident. That line in our present talk—'I've come to get the rent, just like that'—accompanied by a thrust of the hand across the body, is a case in point, and it never fails to make a hit with the house. I first used it in a rehearsal, without fully realizing its comic appeal, and now it's becoming a slang phrase wherever we've been seen.

Max Was Always the Victim.

"Always in our talks it's Max who gets the worst end of every proposition—just as he's doing now in the talk where I notify him that he's been made 'knot inspector' and has to be thrown overboard and tie a knot in the rope for every mile the ship sails. I don't believe the public would stand for it if we reversed this order of things and gave Max the best of it. They're used to seeing him in trouble and he wouldn't look natural to them any other way.

"We get a play written, you know, and then we interpose our own talks and songs and parodies, and all that, keeping them up to date right along.

"One of the aggravating features of our business is that, after we've had a long run in New York and start out through the rest of the country, we find that some of our talk has been taken bodily by vaudeville people, and used as their own—and then we're accused of stealing from them. It's a cold day when the Rogers Brothers do this—we've got to have our own characteristic stuff, and nothing else goes. The public knows just what it wants when it comes to see us."

Began Career in "Variety" Houses.

Gus Rogers was a delightful chap to know, a boyish, round-faced, ingenuous fellow, chock full of enthusiasm and not at all inclined toward self-worship. He was a great admirer of Charles Frohman, the big New York manager. Speaking of the difficulty of predicting beforehand a play's chances for success, he said:

"That's where Charles Frohman's got 'em all beat. He can size up a play or a star better than any other man in the business."

Of his own and his brother's career he said: "The business of the Rogers Brothers is to make people laugh, and that's all we figure on doing. We've starred in nine Rogers Brothers productions 'up to date'—'The Rogers Brothers in Panama' has been added to the list since that time—but we had made good in the variety theaters before we began as stars. That's proved by the fact that, when we left Tony Pastor's to be featured in a play of our own, he tried to hold us by bringing suit for breach of contract."

CROWD CAPTURES MAN WHO GAVE PENNIES TO CHILDREN

HELEN LEE.

Father Alleges He Was Carrying 5-Year-Old Away—Accused Denies Charge.

Charles Green, 40 years old, held at the Carr Street Police Station on the charge of trying to carry away 5-year-old Helen Lee of 2019 Franklin avenue, and caught after a chase and a barricade, said Tuesday that he had no intention of harming the child.

Green, who lives at the Little Planters Hotel on South Fourth street, said he was giving away pennies Monday evening to a group of children, of whom Helen Lee was the youngest, near her home.

"When I had given them a penny apiece all around," he said, "the other children ran away to spend theirs, and left the smallest one there. She began to cry, and I took her by the hand and started after the others.

"Pretty soon I saw I was being chased and I let go of her hand and ran into a house."

The man was taken from a vacant house on Twenty-second street, near Franklin avenue, after he had locked himself in a room.

Patrick Lee, little Helen's father, took part in the chase, as did a neighbor, Mrs. Ellen Kendrick. Both say that, when they first saw Green, he was carrying little Helen on his shoulder. He denies this.

Helen Kirn, 12 years old, one of the children to whom Green gave pennies, said Tuesday that he tried to persuade her to leave the rest and go with him, offering her 25 cents.

Miner Gets $8000 Verdict.

Michael Petro was given a verdict for $8000 by a jury in Judge Rule's court Tuesday against the St. Louis Smelting and Refining Co. Petro worked in the mine of the company in St. Francois County. January 15, 1907, a rock fell on him. An arm and a leg had to be amputated. He sued for $30,000. May 30, 1908, he got a verdict for $15,000. A new trial resulted in a verdict for $8000.

SHADES OF CAPT. KIDD! OLD MAN SEEKS BAGS OF WEALTH MISSING 48 YEARS

Henry Edwards Wants Officials to Aid in Finding His Gold and Silver.

White-haired Henry Edwards, hunting for two bags of gold and two bags of silver, missing for 48 years, called at the Recorder's office in Clayton Tuesday and left the clerks dreaming of Capt. Kidd's treasures and the riches of the Spanish Main.

Edwards is 70 years old and lives in Litchfield, Ill. When his wife, now 60 years old, was 12, she came from Switzerland to the United States with her father, Fren Von Ash, and her brothers and sisters. In St. Louis, which was then a part of St. Louis County, Von Ash went to two lawyers.

"He left two bags of gold and two bags of silver with them," said Edwards. "He took out about half of the coins from one of the bags of silver. The rest they took for safe keeping. He signed some papers.

"The old gentleman died and the children never were able to get the money. I want to find the record of the papers, if there was any record made of them, so that maybe my wife can trace the bags of money."

The old man was told that the county recorder had only the records since the separation of city and county in 1876, and that the records before that time were in the St. Louis Recorder's office. He then started back to the city.

WEST ALTON WOMEN TO ENTER POLITICS IN SALOON FIGHT

Granting of License Has Made Republican Party Many Petticoated Enemies.

The women of West Alton, Mo., are indignant because the St. Charles County Court has permitted Steve Ruckman to open a saloon there. They have fought for 12 years to prevent liquor traffic in the town and Ruckman is the first man who has defeated them in their anti-saloon crusade.

The women are so indignant that at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Virginia McCarthy Monday night they decided to take an active part at the coming election.

"The Republicans are in control and are responsible for the outrage," they say. "We'll just make our husbands vote the Democratic ticket, we will."

YOUR DISTRESSED STOMACH RELIEVED IN FIVE MINUTES.

Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangule and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is fickle, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take some Diapepsin. * * *

Are YOU the WOMAN?

Who says there's but one way to wash clothes clean, and that's with the old-fashioned washboard? We hope you are not she, for with more than 300,000 self-running washing machines now in use in the United States, that old assertion has become "awful" wobbly.

The modern way, the "Yost" way, is washing by agitation. The motor whirls the clothes through the hot suds sixty times a minute—the dirt cannot stay in the clothes—it must come out—and DOES come out. Why not let us send you a "Yost" for your next wash day? It would surely win your approval.

KEEP PLANTS ALL WINTER

To Do So You Must Have an Even Temperature in Your House and That Is Easy if You Have a Cole's Hot Blast Stove.

Every Winter we hear of some reader who has lost a highly prized plant because during a cold snap the fire went out at night, or the family went away for a day and forgot all about the plants.

This never happens where people use a Cole's Hot Blast Stove because this famous heater holds fire from Saturday night until Monday morning with soft coal. In some cases it has been known to hold fire four days and nights without attention, but it assures the user an even temperature all the time and a hat full of coal at the cost of a cent will keep a fire over night easily. Instead of building a new fire in the morning you simply open the draft and the stove will heat for an hour or two with the fuel put in the night before.

This is the stove sold under a positive guarantee by F. H. Ingalls Co., and one of the features of the ironclad guarantee is that the stove will save a third in fuel over any other draft stove of the same size with soft coal, slack or lignite. This handsome cleanly stove is now being shown set up and burning by F. H. Ingalls Co., 1026 Olive St., and every reader should see them before finally deciding on what heater will be bought.

HOW ARCHBOLD MISSIVES WERE TAKEN AND SOLD

Collier's Weekly Tells Story of Theft by Standard's Confidential Messenger.

NEGRO DID THE WORK

Thief Declares Hearst Has Not Read the Most Interesting Letters.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Under the headline "Mr. Hearst's Thieves," Collier's Weekly, out today, publishes what purports to be the true story of the manner in which the founder of the Independence League obtained the John D. Archbold Standard Oil letters which have figured so prominently in the presidential campaign.

The editor of Collier's describes the article as "The story of a white man who crossed the color line, and his negro friend, the stepson of John D. Archbold's aged butler; how they sold the Standard Oil office files to the Hearst newspapers for a trifle over $12,000."

The article in part is as follows:

"It was Willie Winfield and Charles Stump, you see, who sold the John D. Archbold Standard Oil letters (about Sibley and Senator Foraker and other political intimates of No. 26 Broadway) to Mr. Hearst for a trifle over $12,000.

"It looked like a lot of money then," says Charley Stump. "What is $12,000 or $15,000? A few thousand don't last long with the gambling and the rest."

"William W. Winfield, the negro, was the file clerk, messenger and doorkeeper of John D. Archbold until 1905. He is the stepson of John D. Archbold's trusted and now aged negro butler, James N. Wilkins, of blameless life, devoted to Mr. and Mrs. Archbold and by them much honored. For over twenty years Wilkins has been as one of the family. He owns a charming large white house at 35 North Washington street, Tarrytown. Its interior is tasteful and attractive to a degree. Many years ago he married a widow, Mrs. Winfield, whose two sons are John A. Winfield and Willie Winfield. John is porter in the National Bank of Tarrytown.

Willie Knew Things.

"Turn we to Willie.

"'I will tell you an odd thing,' says Willie. 'Archbold is a big man, isn't he? And he knows a lot of big men; but he's more afraid of me. I've had different odd jobs with him since I left Standard Oil. I was with Standard Oil ten years. Stump was there six years—he came in 1899. I taught him all he knew. Why, he didn't know how to handle a telephone; used to put the receiver to his ear, and drop it when it buzzed. Poor Stump, he was just plain foolish, careless, as you might say.'

"'I've never been able to do much business with Archbold,' says Stump, 'since I sold the letters, a little money, once in a while, $75 one time, $10 another time, but nothing much. He keeps my address, though, and knows where I am. I don't understand how Willie keeps next. And yet we've stirred up the campaign for fair. I wrote a letter to Mr. Hearst when he began reading the Archbold letters, saying that, considering the sensation they were making, he ought to send me a little money. There's no use trying to see him. You can't get through the office force. But no money has come from that letter.

"Best" Letters Unread.

"'And yet, do you know, Mr. Hearst hasn't begun to read the best of the letters. He's beginning easy. Wait till you hear him read the Senator Penrose and the Senator Aldrich letters. Then there'll be a sensation. What's happening now is nothing. He hasn't the originals, you know. They were returned to the Standard Oil files. Photographic copies were made, and those are the ones Hearst is using. He hasn't the originals, excepting a few Hanna letters, which may not come out at all. After the photographed copies of the letters were sold to the Hearst people some of the letters were returned to Mr. Archbold by a friend of mine (Stump gave me his name, which is here suppressed, because he is living honestly).

"'Mr. Archbold had offered us $1000, but he didn't pay it after he got his hands on the letters.

"'We knew it was too much risk to steal the originals and then keep them. J. D. A. would be sure to ask some day for them, and where would we be? So we had to photograph them and then return them.

"'Willie fetched the stuff to me, but he never showed up at the Hearst office at all. They've never laid eyes on him. It's me that stands to lose on any publicity. Willie has nothing to lose. He's got his Tarrytown home. He's fixed, living there with his stepfather, who has the job with Archbold.

"'You know Willie has always denied his guilt. He actually brought suit against Mr. Archbold at the time of his dismissal. Paid a lawyer to prepare the papers and everything. He's a reckless fellow.'"

"'The Standard Oil people are easy to work for,' says Willie Winfield. 'They never ask any questions when you're late in the morning, or don't show up that day, or stay away on a sick leave. We were always taking time off. Why, one time there in 1904, at the end of the year, Stump disappeared for six weeks and nobody could find him. There's no pay at Standard Oil, except for the big men, but they're easy. Charley and I used to play the races Saturdays. We make $100 a week sometimes; $300 once in a while.'

"But life was too slow for these two, and they decided to do a little better than well enough. It was at the close of 1904 that Willie Winfield brought the Archbold correspondence in bargain lots to his good friend, Charley Stump, and made him, the white man, the actual negotiator at the Hearst office in Park Row.

"Soon after the presidential election of 1904 Stump became a familiar figure at nights in the editorial rooms of William Randolph Hearst's New York newspapers. He had many whispered conferences, calling two or three times a week for many weeks.

"Along toward the end of his visits he became generally known to managing editors and other authorities of the office, including, of course, the office boys, whom he scorned, as 'the man with the Standard Oil letters.' It was known that with two Hearst officials he and a photographer met in the photograph rooms of the newspaper. A safe in the office became known as "the safe with the negatives of the Standard Oil letters in it.' When news was dull and it was commonplace for one editor or another to sigh: "Wish the boss would let us into those Standard Oil negatives in the safe!"

"Early in 1905, Mr. Archbold discovered the theft, and Willie and Stump were discharged. They had cleaned up a little over $12,000 by the series of transactions in Park Row, and a small part of this they invested in a saloon. The rest they dropped in poolrooms, the races, and in other ways."

CHINESE GIRL MODEL FOR SISTERS IN WHITE SCHOOL, TEACHERS SAY

She Never Sits in Presence of Elders Unless Requested to Do So and Is Always Considerate of and Courteous to Others.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

AFTER casting their bread upon the waters, the students of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, find it returning to them manifold.

As their annual contribution to foreign missions, this school for young women has undertaken the education of a Chinese girl, Miss Jessie Ding, lately arrived from Foo Chow, South China.

Now her influence promises to redound beneficially upon her benefactors.

"She is a beautiful example, if not a living reproof, to the other girls," said Mrs. Heron, the principal.

"Not that our girls need reproving for any laxity in the faith—a record of 78 years testifies substantially to Presbyterian prosperity in this school, but the ardent faith of Jessie will make them loath to undeceive her as to their less devout conduct, so her influence cannot but work for good."

Miss Jessie knows but a few words of English, but she makes it very plain that she has left her parents and her 12 brothers and sisters and all her nieces and nephews, of whom she fondly shows you photographs, and has voluntarily sacrificed these years of her life to the further study of the Christian religion for the sake of her countrymen.

'Mus' Study Medicine When I Am Educate," She Says

"I THINK I mus' study medicine, when I am educate," she earnestly endeavored to say to me. "In my country I see so many woman sick and they no like man doctors. They not like you—they theenk it bad, O, very bad.

"And I know I reach their souls for Jesus Christ's sake if I cure their body first," she added.

It is a stupendous project for so small and young a person, but see how methodically and practically she has planned.

She is very shy, clasps and unclasps her hands and uses many gestures to make herself understood. In this way she vigorously denies being homesick.

She arrived less than two weeks ago at Lindenwood and she has already accustomed herself to the ways which must, indeed, be new and strange to her, or if she hasn't, she is too polite to say so.

Little of Consideration or Courtesy to Teach Her

"WE can teach her little of courtesy and consideration to others, which is real politeness the world over," said Mrs. Heron, "and indeed some of her ways are so grand that we would like to learn from her.

"She never sits in the presence of her elders unless especially invited to do so and she cannot be surprised into criticising anything adversely.

"And we, in turn, urge her to wear her native dress and keep her own habits and traditions as much as possible.

"You must think our kind of clothes very foolish," I said, glancing at her simple costume.

She Refuses to Criticise American Women's Dress

"OH, not for you—but I am so deeferent, so leetle and so dark. And some China woman wear many clothes," she said as if to comfort me. "They wear not beeg hat, but beeg—what you call—p-i-n-s, in the hair.

"Every one mos' nice to me here," she said. "Mos' nice country I have see since I leave China. Japanese not respectful to Chinese. I stay two months there.

"Of course it is a long time till I go back, but I stay for Jesus Christ sake," said the little zealot.

SHOOTS SELF AT TELEPHONE ASKING GIRL TO FORGIVE

Former St. Louisan, Now a Pittsburg Detective, Ends His Life.

INSULT WAS RESENTED

Stenographer Resigned and Employer Said He Made Reparation in Death.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 20.—As reparation for an insult to Miss Florence Warman, his stenographer, Jerome Compton Counsell, a private detective, formerly of St. Louis, shot and killed himself while talking to Miss Warman over the telephone last night. He pleaded incoherently for her to forgive him, but before she could reply he said: "I am sorry I spoke to you as I did and I am going to pay for it now. Listen."

Miss Warman heard two shots and ran screaming from the telephone. She notified the manager of the detective agency and Counsell was found dead on a desk in the office, his body bent over the telephone transmitter. The revolver was in his hand.

Counsel, who was 28 years old, came to Pittsburg from St. Louis, about a year ago, with his wife and family, to whom he seemed devoted. He obtained employment with the Keystone Detective Agency and was considerd one of their best operatives.

Miss Warman was employed by Counsell as a stenographer. Remarks he made to her yesterday caused her to resign.

Counsell called her on the telephone at her home last night to apologize. He had been talking to her only a few moments when he shot himself.

Counsel's wife is an invalid.

BENEFACTOR OF NEWSBOYS GIVES THEM BANQUET

Distinguished Catholic Prelates Attend Affair at Father Dunne's Home.

PAINTINGS PRESENTED

Hugh Campbell, Modest Philanthropist, Runs From Youthful Applause.

It's a good thing for the newsboys of St. Louis that Hugh Campbell is a bachelor, because if he had boys of his own, he might spend for them the money that he now gives for the comfort and pleasure of the young merchant. Having no children of his own Mr. Campbell has become a father to the two hundred boys in Father Dunne's Newsboys' Home.

Mr. Campbell is so modest a philanthropist that when he gave a banquet Monday evening to the boys of the Home and to Mgr. Diomede Falconio, the Papal delegate, and to Archbishop Glennon and other archbishops and priests of the Catholic church, he stood back among the waiters unobserved.

The banquet cost Mr. Campbell several hundred dollars; three paintings which he presented at the same time to the Home cost him several thousand dollars, and the building in which the banquet was held cost him about $40,000, but, as he whispered privately behind his hand to a man he did not know was a newspaper reporter:

"What do I care what it costs so long as I am made happy by seeing these boys happy? That is reward enough for me."

All the newsboys know that Mr. Campbell is their benefactor and they love him. The majority of these boys were waifs on the street who never knew the love of a father and Mr. Campbell is a father to them. The prelates of the Catholic church know about it too, but all of them are sworn to secrecy. It is understood that Mr. Campbell's name is never to appear on the printed lists of contributors and that it is never to be mentioned in public in connection with the home.

And so, when Archbishop Glennon was speaking to the boys after they had eaten their fill Monday evening, he did not dare to mention the name of Mr. Campbell, but he spoke of him as "Your Benefactor" and every boy looked around toward the foot of the table where stood, leaning against the wall, an elderly gentleman with thin gray hair and mustache and a face that beamed with kindness and pleasure.

And when the 200 boys clapped their hands and cheered and waved their napkins at him, Mr. Campbell turned and left the room.

"That repays me for it all," he said with tears in his eyes. "They are happy and I thank God that it has been given to me to be able to bring happiness into the lives of so many boys who would otherwise be neglected."

PRISONER DENIES ORDERING WIFE TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Woman Declares After Swallowing Poison She Was Driven to It.

John Hunger, arrested after his wife, Rosie, 19 years old, had swallowed carbolic acid and attempted to leap from a second-story window, denied Tuesday her charge that he had driven her to attempt suicide by threatening to kill her.

"My husband told me," the girl wife said at the City Hospital, "that he was tired of seeing me, and if I didn't kill myself he would kill me."

"That's a lie," insisted the man in his cell at the Central District Station. "I never said anything like that. We separated because of her relatives. If they'd left us alone, we'd have got along all right."

Mrs. Hunger returned at 6 p. m. Monday to the home of her sister, Mrs. Lizzie Hallbourn, 914 South Fourth street, where she had lived since separating from her husband two months ago. They were married in March, 1907, and lived at 602 South Second street.

"My sister met her husband last Wednesday," said Mrs. Hallbourn Tuesday; "and he told her if she didn't kill herself he would kill her."

VETERAN WHO DIED SUDDENLY HAD MANY ST. LOUIS FRIENDS

Col. J. F. Adams, One of Morgan's Men, Associate of Murray Carleton.

Col. J. F. Adams, member of Morgan's Raiders during the Civil War, who died in a Cleveland Hospital after being taken suddenly sick on the street and after having been locked in Jail owing to a policeman's belief that he was intoxicated, was widely known in the wholesale district of St. Louis. He was a close friend of Murray Carleton, who was immediately informed of his death, and who notified relatives in Kentucky.

Col. Adams was born in Lexington, Ky., in 1842. He was with Morgan in early raids of the Civil War and received several promotions in the Confederate Army for gallantry. At the close of the war he went to New York. He came to St. Louis in 1880 and became interested in the street car companies with Murray Carleton and A. B. DuPont, now president of the Municipal Traction Co. of Cleveland. He was later in the wholesale clothing business.

DEATH-DEALING FENDERS.

Since the first of last April seven children have been killed by the street cars. In nearly every case the fatal injury has been due to the inefficiency of the fenders used by the United Railways, which, instead of saving life, have operated as death-dealing instruments. The menace of the fenders was illustrated in the killing of little Agnes Wild last Saturday. Instead of being picked up and saved from serious injury by the fender, the child was crushed and dragged under the fender.

One fatal fault with the form of fender in use is that the efficiency depends upon the action of the motorman at the moment of the accident. Usually the motorman is panic-stricken, but even if he were cool and quick it would be practically impossible for him in all cases to put on brakes, reverse power and drop the fender at the same moment. Too much is required of one man. The principle of the fender controlled by the motorman is condemned by all experts. Either the fender should be ready for business at all times or should work automatically.

Under the fender law passed by the Municipal Assembly for the protection of life and limb, all fenders must have the approval of the Board of Public Improvements before they can be put in use. It is the duty of the board to inspect and test fenders before approving them.

The responsibility for the use of inefficient fenders rests with both the street railway management and the Board of Public Improvements. The blood of the innocents who have been killed by cheap and inefficient devices stains the hands of both.

If the g. o. p. attempts to buy the election it may succeed in buying a gold brick.

LITERARY NOTE.

After March 4th Mr. Theodore Roosevelt will become associate editor of the Outlook, his work to cover political and economic topics.

This announcement will disappoint the many subscribers of the Commoner, who had hoped that Mr. Roosevelt would be given charge of that publication during Mr. Bryan's incumbency of the White House.

Instead we suppose that the Commoner will be reserved for Mr. Taft, provided, of course, that he is not forced to accept the editorship of one of the labor publications.

The President is "the chief ruler of the people," Secretary of War Luke E. Wright told a New York audience Monday night. His bitter assault upon the Democratic doctrine, to which Bryan referred in speaking of the President as a servant of the people, interests only because it shows how far Gen. Wright has drifted toward the imperialism he sustained as Governor of the Philippines and his complete acceptance of the monarchial principle which is the essence of "My Policies" Rooseveltism.

THE WELCOME AT YOKOHAMA.

The American battleship fleet met a welcome at Yokohama calculated to unsettle whatever jingoism thoughtless people may have imbibed from Hobson's preachments.

Although the arrangements were under government supervision, the cabled accounts indicate a hearty and entirely unforced greeting of good will from the people of Nippon themselves; a friendly spirit pervades the population very far from that petty jealousy for trade advantages which Hobson has tried so hard to excite in this country, and which, let us add with devout thanks, he has signally failed to accomplish.

If the fleet gets away without misadventure, which can only happen through some jingo insanity working in the mind of a brooding Japanese Hobson, the voyage of the battleships will be not entirely without profit. It is worth while at times to demonstrate that international good feeling is something more than a diplomatic formality, but is rooted in a healthy public sentiment.

Let us hope there will at least be rains sufficient to render Salt River navigable by Nov. 3.

GIRLS IN THE WHITE HOUSE.

The White House takes on the color of youth during the Roosevelt administration for the first time since Gen. Grant's presidency.

Nellie Grant was about 16 years of age when her father was inaugurated, March, 1869. She was married in the White House. Grant was followed by Hayes, who boasted no daughters. Neither had Garfield, Arthur or Cleveland. President Harrison's daughter, Mrs. McKee, was already married when he became President. Mr. McKinley had no children.

The Roosevelt family has enlivened things as they have not been enlivened for half a century. The presence of the two daughters has made the place a center of social interest as wide as the whole country, for everybody is necessarily interested in the social fortunes of the President's daughters.

It is pleasant to think that youth will continue to hold sway. Both Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan are blessed with daughters, so that however the election goes the girls will have the run of the White House.

COL. KERENS' CANDIDACY.

Granting all that can be said for Col. Kerens on account of his services to the Republican party, what possible ground can be found in those services to justify his election to the United States Senate as the representative of Missouri.

Col. Kerens' services have consisted in the main of liberal contributions to the Republican campaign funds. His purse is fat and he has opened it generously for the "boys."

In exchange for his generosity Col. Kerens has had prominence in party councils and complimentary nominations to the full extent of his deserving.

What, except the dough-bag, does Col. Kerens represent in politics? What are his qualifications?

Has Col. Kerens ever indicated a statesmanlike capacity to serve a great State with credit in the highest legislative body of the country? Would he be hailed as a strong, able, progressive representative of the people? Would he shine on the floor of the Senate? Would he give strength to the cause of the people in the deliberations and the work of the Senate?

Has Col. Kerens ever contributed one idea to State or national politics? Has he ever been identified with any reform or any political movement for the welfare of the people? Is there anything in his record or his utterances indicating that he represents anything in politics except money, the capacity to make it and the willingness to circulate and use it for party advantage?

On the contrary, does not the record, affiliations and utterances of Col. Kerens identify him wholly with the plutocratic interests,

Shall it be said of the Republican party of Missouri in this day of enlightenment and reform in politics that its choice as the representative of the party and the State in the United States Senate, the highest office in the gift of the people of Missouri, is a man whose fitness is measured by his ability and willingness to fill the party dough-bag.

Would Missouri Republicans dare go before the people of the State with Col. Kerens as the senatorial nominee before the general election? With his lead in the race for the party nomination admitted by Republican organs and leaders, how can the party managers expect popular support of the Republican legislative candidates? With what sincerity can they plead devotion to the popular issues of the campaign?

Two dangers confront the people of Missouri in the approaching election—the re-election of Senator Stone, whose furtive alliances with plutocratic interests discredit his leadership, or the election of Col. Kerens who is openly identified with the plutocratic interests.

If Missouri is to be saved from the possibility of reproach in the senatorship the vote of good Democrats should be concentrated on Gov. Folk, and the good citizenship of the State should support Democratic legislators.

The new Tsar of Bulgaria has purchased seven pianolas. He will have a European concert all by himself.

UNCLE JOE'S UNHAPPY PHRASES.

When Uncle Joe Cannon is questioned concerning the campaign he responds in such phrases as "Damn!" and "Go to the devil!"

Expressed from his point of view, we of Missouri must regard them as significant. That's the way the situation looks to him, then. Somewhat chaotic, we infer.

If Uncle Joe were looking happy and ejaculating such things as "Well, well, well!!" and "Bully!" he might occasion graver fears of Republican success. As it is, his explosive irritability gives accent to the hope of a joyous popular victory, in which the Profane Speaker of the House would hardly be expected to share.

It is a matter of congratulation that all of the candidates mentioned for the Council are men of good character and standing and pledge themselves to progressive legislation on questions of the greatest importance to St. Louisans. They are pledged to favor practicable legislation for the regulation of public utilities and for supplying of competition in gas and electric lighting. They are pledged to the free bridge. Out of the candidates nominated a good ticket can be selected. Voters should support the best men for municipal office regardless of party affiliations.

CAPITALIZED PRIVILEGE.

In an article in the Annals of the American Academy of Political Science Mr. H. E. Miles, Republican manufacturer and protectionist, exposes the trick of tariff making.

Mr. Miles tells the story of a Senator who held up the Dingley bill until he got a wholly unwarranted tariff on borax worth $5,000,000 to him and his friends.

"And so it is," said Mr. Miles, "that Nevada borax, the most easily mined and the best deposits in the world, is protected against inferior foreign deposits, and that the retail price of borax in England is 2 1-2 cents a pound, while in the United States it is 2 1-2 cents plus the 5 cents duty, or 7 1-2 cents. This Senator quickly sold the mines to an English syndicate for $12,000,000. What he sold was incidentally the mines, and in principal part, the right to tax the American people by act of Congress, 5 cents per pound, or 200 per cent, on its borax over and above a fair price."

Seldom has the true nature and operation of a tariff tax been so clearly stated. This Senator first procured "protection," that is, monopoly, for borax interests, which needed no protection, on the plea that American capital and industry should be encouraged, and then sold the protection to foreigners, who used the monopoly to promote foreign interests. Here was a capitalized privilege containing the essence of the whole scheme of privilege. Every principle and possibility of monopoly is illustrated in this remarkable case.

The tariff plank in the Republican platform reads: "The true principle of protection is best maintained by the imposition of such duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with a reasonable profit to American industries."

Since borax costs less in this country than in England, it is easy to understand the chuckle of the borax Senator when he disposed of his monopoly privilege for $12,000,000. But the sarcasm is whetted by the fact that the "reasonable profit to American industries" is converted by a stroke of the pen into an unreasonable profit for English investors and the American privilege holder, at the expense of American industry.

The best comment which can be made upon this monstrous hypocrisy is found in an opinion of Justice Miller of the United States Supreme Court:

"To lay with one hand the power of the Government on the profits of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprise and build up private fortunes, is none the less robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation."

GOV. HUGHES LOOKS GOOD TO THAW.

Harry Thaw's political interview in the White Plains Jail destroys the last hope of his ever establishing his sanity, but on the contrary fixes on him for all time the character of non compos mentis.

Says he: "Gov. Hughes looks good to me, and if I was out of here and had some money I would bet on him to carry New York."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Dress Clothes and the Horse Show.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The Horse Show is St. Louis' greatest social function of a general nature. It has been supported by the common people, not by society. Many men, myself included, like to see the show of men, women and horses, but do not own or care to own or to wear a dress suit. We like to walk about the promenade and meet friends, talk horse and women and have a good time. Why should we have to wear a dress suit? I protest against this snobbishness. I understand that the Horse Show Society has made up its mind not to allow any but men in dress suits on the promenade. If this is so, the public, which has for years supported this event, should know in advance that it is not wanted. A COMMONER.

A Correction.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I wish to call attention to an injustice made to the Steel Trust in Friday's Post-Dispatch. You say that the $7 or $8 more per ton paid for American steel in America is not profit. You forget the expense of campaign contributions that must be deducted for the purpose of preserving the tariff that brings the $7 in. Be fair to the Steel Trust. JUSTICE.

Accessories to Fraud.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

While I am not always in accord with your editorial expressions, I think your cartoon on the election thieves gnawing at the foundation of our Government, as the strongest possible appeal to the liberty-loving voter to do his share towards purifying the ballot. When we by our actions demand a fair and honest count and the right of every man to one and only one vote, and condemn the men higher up, the ones that profit by such acts, instead of electing them to office and to make our laws, then we will have honest elections. Every man who neglects to vote or take an interest in the affairs of Government or excuses these election crooks, both high and low, because his party may be implicated or gain by such acts, is himself an accessory to the crime. The election frauds are only possible because of the indifference of the voters. B. S.

From a Republican's Wife.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

While I am not a politician, yet I followed closely the news and notes of the Government for the past 10 years. My husband has always been a Republican, but I must say "There is something rotten in Denmark." Why is it there are so many poor children in Chicago and other cities who actually have not the necessities of life. Who, half-clad, are compelled to go to school hungry, in order that they might get education, when our President, who ought to be the people's protector, has two private yachts for his own and his family's use, and who, according to reports, has already cost the Government $3,000,000,000, and one-tenth of the money spent on the useless voyage of our warships around the world would have clothed and fed all the poor children in the United States. They should be looked affer, for on the future generation depends the rise or fall of our Government. A TEXAS WOMAN.

THE REPUBLICAN MACHINE.

From the Independent.

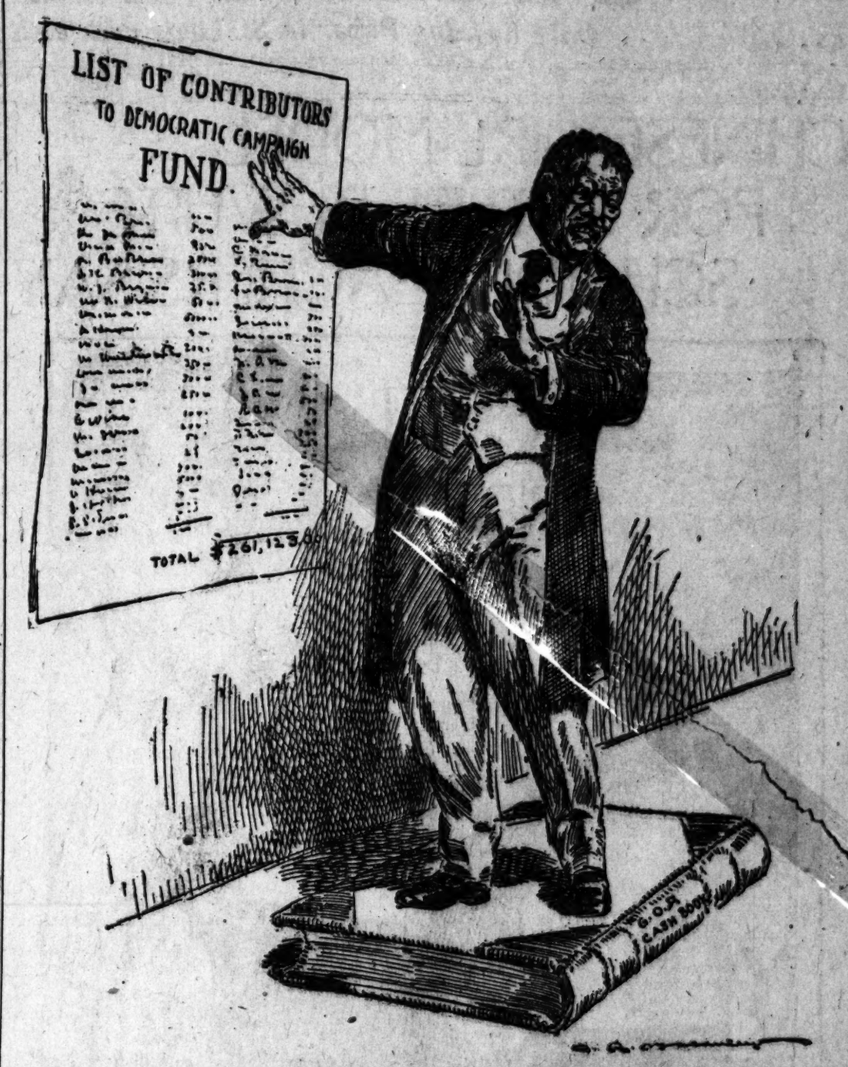

In Indiana the city block in cities and the school district in the country are the units of organization, and each unit is placed directly in charge of a reliable worker who is held responsible for the results therein. He is expected to know every voter, his political affiliations and his susceptibilities. The Indiana organization, or "Machine," as its opponents call it, has the reputation of being the most effective in the Central West. In Illinois the precinct is the unit and 10 men are placed in charge of each precinct. The State Committee has 4000 men at its command, who can be depended upon to get into political action upon short notice. These men make a careful canvass of the State at least every two years. In Pennsylvania there is a system of county leaders who are held responsible for the results in the counties. These in turn hold the city, town, village and township leaders responsible for results in these subdivisions. The State leader is the overlord, seeing that his subordinates of various degrees perform their duties and "produce results." Under the Nebraska system a careful card catalogue record is kept. Every voter's place of residence, his political belief and his characteristics are carefully noted, and are available at a moment's notice.

MISSOURI ON TRIAL.

From the St. Joseph News-Press.

In this senatorial matter Missouri is practically on trial before the nation. The effect of Mr. Folk's success would be most beneficial. It would compel attention to the fact that Missouri is progressive; that bourbonism is dead here; that the people have thrown over the old incubus that has kept this great State in the background; that there is a degree of political independence here which means to give the State its proper place; that the day of political time-servers with slippery methods is past; that what it puts forth must be new and clean and vigorous.

"THEY'RE NOT PRACTICAL MEN."

JUST A MINUTE FOR VERSE AND HUMOR

Written for the Post-Dispatch by Clark McAdams.

WHY THE STUMP SPEECH?

Unless it is the politicians themselves, nothing else in our national life is so overrated as the stump speech. It is attended by none but those of the speaker's faith. These were already determined to vote the ticket for which the speaker is braying throat trouble and the night air, so that the only effect the speech could have on them is helpful to the succored cause would be to induce them to vote more than once, which is not to be thought of in connection with our more notable orators.

The stump speakers make no converts. They know it. No one ever heard a stump speaker ask the penitents to come forward after the address. They know very well that there are no penitents. Their method has been known to be futile by the evangelists for more than half a century. Contrast Mr. Bryan and Senator Beveridge with the Rev. "Billy" Sunday. The Rev. "Billy" assumes that all his hearers are sinners. He seeks to convince them that they have done wrong, and urges them to repent. Bryan and Beveridge, upon the other hand, assume that their hearers are all of the speaker's faith. They assure them that they have been doing right, and urge them to go on doing it. There is no personal appeal. A political sinner who wanted to repent and move up front at a political meeting would be regarded as a disturber from the opposing party hired to break up the meeting.

Oratory destroyed the Roman Empire. It has already partially destroyed the Democratic party. Have the Republicans read the history of neither?

TWO WEEKS.

AWAITING line at a polling place,
A line that starts and jerks,
A tailor shop or a hardware store,
And a pair of palsied clerks.
An old and hard-of-hearing judge,
A pen that pricks and squeaks,
And a line that swears, and waits and shoves—
Two weeks.

A canvas swung above the street,
A stereopticon—
"A dozen precincts in New York
Give Taft and Sherman none."
A roar of triumph in the night,
A few heart-broken shrieks,
And a funny picture sandwiched in—
Two weeks.

A group of white-faced, beaten men,
A sign "Headquarters Here,"
A hasty smothering of lights,
A distant rebel cheer.
A drum corps coming up the street,
Some swiftly-beaten sneaks,
And a silent and abandoned fort—
Two weeks.

Relative.

A San Francisco man and a Boston man met on a train coming north from New Orleans and fell into a conversation as to changes they were both about to make in their places of abode.

"Where do you expect to locate?" asked the Boston man.

"In the Far East," replied the San Francisco man. "And where do you intend to settle down?"

"In the Far West," replied the Boston man.

They bemoaned the fact that since they were congenial company they would be so far apart, but it transpired on further explanation that they were both going to live in Chicago.

Danger From Springs.

In the summer, when so many thousands drink from tempting springs in the woods and on hillsides, a warning recently given by Mr. E. A. Martel, a celebrated French explorer of caverns, should not go unnoticed. Contrary to a widely prevalent opinion, Mr. Martel says that springs of apparently pure water are, in many cases, merely the outflow of surface waters, which have disappeared through fissures, carrying with them pollution from the soil, and not purified in their passage through the rocks. He thinks that even chalk is not an effectual filter for surface water passing through it.

ENGINEER.—Some obliging reader may tell you how to install a gasoline engine in a boat.

MIKE.—It is not serious. Sometimes indicates nervous condition; sometimes it is pre-diabetic.

SWASTIKA.—The Postoffice Department does not sustain itself. There is a deficit every year.

Z.—Marie Corelli is not dead. She lives at Stratford-on-Avon and has recently written another book.

ANHEUSER.—To polish glassware made rough by friction of metal, use sand, emery and rouge.

LULU.—Lace hat with plumes is appropriate for midwinter on any occasion, but not on the street.

NEMO.—"Society" goes to theaters Monday and Friday evenings. There is no "negro night" for theaters.

A.—Tablespoonful of saltpeter taken every day may do no especial harm. It would be a foolish practice.

P. G.—Carondelet to Fenton, about 10 miles on bee line; Fenton to Miramec Highlands, about three miles.

H. W. B.—Menier's disease of the middle ear is not curable. Conditions, however, may be affected by treatment.

READER.—(Correction.) Mechanics' lien on wallpapering may be filed and has been collected in a number of cases.

P. B.—Examinations are not customary for a small industrial policy; otherwise, all life insurance companies require it.

E. H.—Valley Park to Kirkwood about five miles on Missouri Pacific track, which is more direct than wagon road.

C. K. L.—Lowest bankruptcy cost, not including lawyer's fee, $71. Get full information in U. S. District Court, Postoffice Building.

ATHERTON.—Height of Eads Bridge above low water: At zero on gauge, center span, 88 feet; side span, 83 feet. Merchants' Bridge, 3 feet lower than Eads Bridge.

FRUITER.—Phone electrical goods stores. Some have used the electric process to remove hair by electricity is best as Superfluous hair by electricity is best done by experts.

A. T.—The bank would not tell you whether your son has deposited money there. You can watch him and see if he goes to any place where money is deposited.

McN.—The Tontine Investment Co. you mention was consolidated with other companies. You can get full information at Mississippi Valley Trust Co., receiver.

M.—Some reader may give you formula for preparation for repainting golf balls—one that dries immediately and does not crack. Paint store has no such preparation.

J. B.—The part of the Grant farm owned by August Busch, on the Gravois road, is a mile or a little more in length. There are about two blocks more of it, the property of another owner.

MRS. F.—Agreements must be kept, and providing he is willing to fulfill the contract as to his part you can do nothing to regain your money. He can, as well, compel you to complete the purchase.

JOHN.—In case a father by his brutal and inhuman conduct breaks up a family and the children are compelled to go out and earn their living, minor child is entitled to wages he earns, not the father.

MARINE.—Parents cannot have marine enlistment canceled. Recruit swearing falsely that he is of enlistment age is courtmartialed, imprisoned six months or two years and dishonorably discharged.

DOROTHY.—Enlarged pores: Diluted lemon juice; rub vigorously with coarse towel. Another astringent to close enlarged pores is boracic acid, made by dissolving a teaspoonful of the powder in a pint of hot water.

X.—Four highest salaries for Federal appointments in St. Louis: Surveyor of Customs (who is also Acting Collector of Internal Revenue), $5000; Postmaster, $5000; Collector of Customs, $5000; Assistant Treasurer, $4500.

BOSTONIAN.—Thank you for the information that in Boston they eat beans, large, small, brown, white, lima or string (just so they are beans) from the cradle to the grave. Perhaps they know how to cook them.

T. M.—Not knowing circumstances and facts, it is impossible to inform you as to further liability. However, we know of no case of any installment house going farther than to take back the mortgaged furniture.

LANDLORD.—As a rule principal and interest notes secured by deed of trust are so drawn to assure their negotiable character. Indorsement of notes carries the mortgage to holder thereof and pass from hand to hand.

I. C. B.—In sending out invitations to an afternoon tea it is only necessary to inclose visiting card to all friends, with the day and date and "from four till six" written at the top of the card. Mail cards a week or ten days before the event. In case of girl of 14, mother's visiting card is sent.

S. S. S.—You can sue the corporation or compromise the matter if you desire; however, it may deny liability, the accident having occurred through his own negligence or under circumstances not within its control. A court must decide the matter upon the facts produced. Consult an attorney.

SUBSCRIBER.—Any man whose friends can show by his discharge or his pension papers that he has served in the United States Army can be buried in the National Cemetery at Jefferson Barracks, and a headstone will be furnished if desired. Permit can be obtained on fourth floor of the Government Building at Third and Olive. One who has never done any military service cannot be buried in the Jefferson Barracks Cemetery.

DOUBTFUL.—There have been instances where fortune tellers have been correct and many business men have testified to the accuracy of some of them. We, however, do not advise depending upon them or the "spirits," there being mischievous spirits and ignorant ones, who, if information were to come from them, would prove disastrous. Any person with common sense will at once know whether they are being deceived or not. Unfortunately, common sense is often lacking.

READER.—It is the girl's privilege to ask her young men friends to call upon her, though nothing forbids a man to show by his manner that her acquaintance is pleasing to him and thus perhaps suggest that the invitation would be welcome. Many girls, diffident of their attractions, fear to ask what might be regarded without favor. The custom of the woman's initiative has much to commend it, for it is difficult for a girl to refuse the permission to call, no matter how unwelcome or unsuitable an acquaintance the man might be.

MAY.—This is the cheapest cornbread of which we know: It goes well with sliced, crisp breakfast bacon for breakfast: To make "corn pone" of the South, mix a quart of sweet, yellow meal, well sifted, with a teaspoonful of salt and a tablespoon of butter; melt the butter and add; then stir into the meal cold water to make a stiff dough; mold this with the hands into small oval cakes, rather thin than thick, but not too thick, and bake in well-greased pans; the oven should be hot, and the cakes must be baked to a nice brown; they should be pulled, not cut, and buttered generously while hot.

PROF. NIX'S NUMERAL SYSTEM

He Would Base It on 12, and His Scheme Is Described For the Post-Dispatch

By DAVID H. DODGE

"CHARLES," said Prof. Nix's wife, "here's a story in the paper about a baby born with six fingers and six toes."

"Is that all?" said the professor, looking up from his book.

"Is that all?" repeated the professor's wife opening her eyes, and adding sarcastically: "How many more would you like the poor thing to have?"

"Eight," said Prof. Nix promptly. "It ought to have at least 10 fingers and 10 toes. It's the usual number."

"You know I meant six on each foot and six on each hand," said the professor's wife frigidly, "but if you're going to try and be funny tonight"—

"It's all right, my love," said Prof. Nix, soothingly. "I have no such intention. I trust I know my place. But, honestly, I wish we were all sexdigitate, like our young friend of whom you were reading."

"Why?" asked the professor's wife.

"Because the present decimal system of the world is based solely upon the fact that we have 10 fingers and 10 toes. Those simple but important souls, our primitive progenitors, were able to coun. only on their fingers, and when they came to the last one they had to start over again. That is why, after each 10, we recommence with a one, as shown in the numbers 11, 21, 31, 101, 1001, 1000.00.1, et cetera."

"If We Had Two More Digits."

"But I don't see anything inconvenient in that," objected the professor's wife; "it's very easy."

"Quite easy," acquiesced the professor, "but not quite as convenient as if we had more digits—the word digit, as you doubtless know, coming from a Latin word meaning finger."

"Never mind that," said the professor's wife; "but tell me why you want two more."

"If there were 12,' replied the professor, "we could split up our system of notation more easily, since 12 is divisible by 2, 3, 4 and 6; while 10 is divisible by only 2 and 5. Besides, my dear, think of the extra varieties of marked-down prices in the stores it would insure. Could you resist, for instance, a woman's tailored suit at 'one-four-bim-click'?"

"How Much Is One Four Bim Click?"

"At what?" said the professor's wife.

Prof. Nix smiled. "I was anticipating," he murmured. "If we had two more figures we should have to give them names, of course. From 1 to 9 the digits would be the same, then would come (say) 'bim,' and then (say) 'click,' and then 10 and 12 wouldn't come till two units later, equalling our present 14."

"Dear me!" said the professor's wife. "Bridget is now getting $240 a year. What would she get under the new arrangement?"

"Only one-eight-nought dollars," said the professor, "but it would be the same amount of actual money, of course."

"And if that Mrs. Coller succeeded in luring her away with a promise of $3 a month more?"

"She would then get one-click dollars a month," replied the professor, "or one-click-nought dollars a year."

There was a slight pause in the conversation.

"How much is that one-four-bim-click you were speaking about?" suddenly inquired the professor's wife.

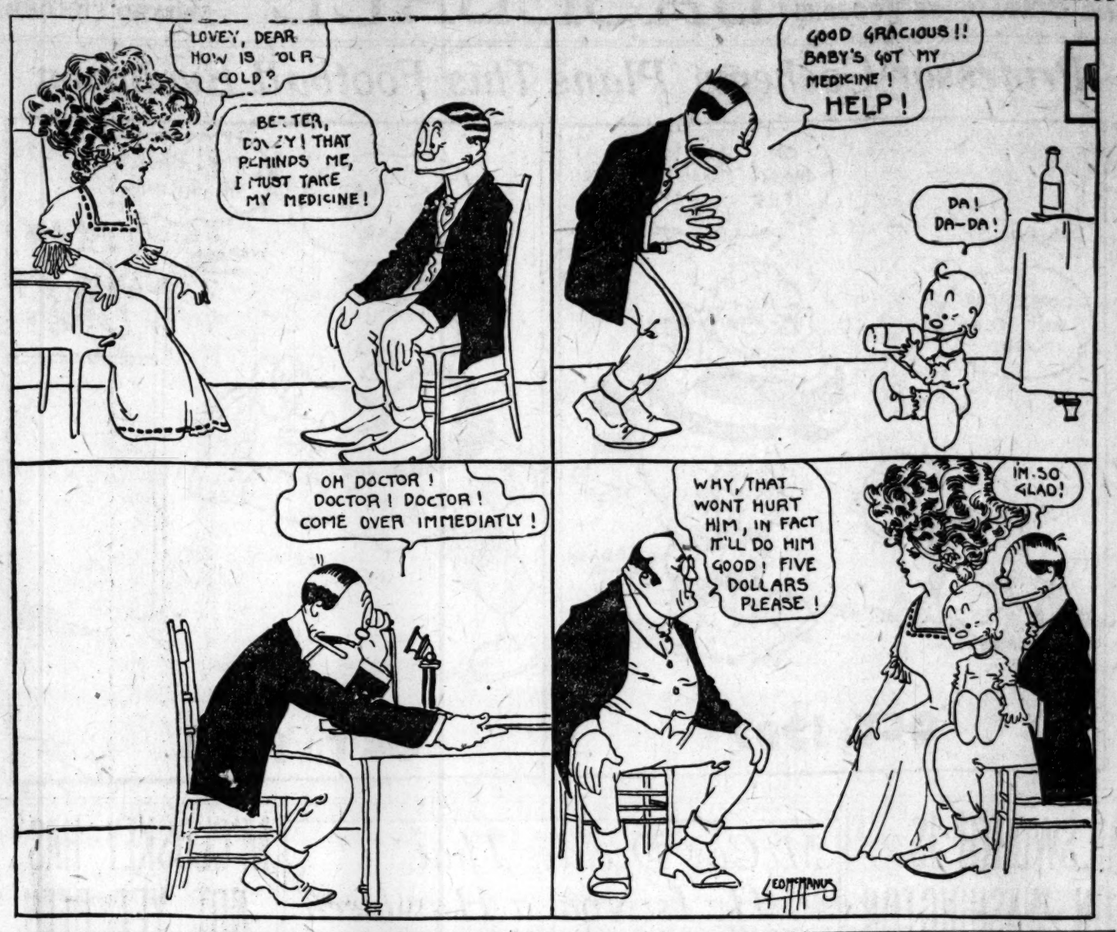

Prof. Nix made a rapid mental calculation. "Twenty-four dollars and forty-six cents," he announced, and then glanced up uneasily.

"Yes, Charles," said the professor's wife, reading his thoughts. "I am sure there is a beautiful one-four-bim-click tailored suit waiting for me tomorrow at the Colossal Emporium. Please!"

"Oh, all right," said the professor, obediently handing over the money and taking up his book; "but we've had enough of notation tonight. You need not read me anything more about those six-fingered Jacks."

What Came of a Family Row Told for the Post-Dispatch

BY IVAN WHIN.

PART III.

MAZIE denied too vigorously any intent to imply that she was aware of Ida's whereabouts. Morris was conscious that she lied but no trick of questioning tripped her.

"Was you looking for her when I saw you at Havlin's?" she asked and some inflection in that question, some slyness of expression added to his knowledge that Ida had found her means of livelihood on the stage.

He began again correspondence with theatrical agents, got the booking lists of local theaters and wrote to the managers of road companies but nowhere was Ida Mandelbaum known.

As is inevitable when such a man as Morris interests himself in any phase of a business he acquires information about all its phases. Morris became known to theatrical people and learned from them much that was to be of profit to his pocket.

Haas, his employer, expressed dissatisfaction with Morris' work at the psychological moment. The manager of the "Broken Hearts" company died suddenly leaving an excellent combination fully booked for the season without a competent business leader. Morris' bank account was demanding an investment. He bought out the widow's interest in "Broken Hearts" and set forth as a manager.

"Say but you're the rapid one," Fanny remarked admiringly, "but you have to give it to me, kid. I put you on the stage."

"Right you did; but what are we going to do with the picture houses. Want to buy my share?"

"Buy? Why, Morris, you're crazy. Go along with your Cracked Brains show and let our shows go as they lay. I won't rob you—do you think I will? Nit. I'll keep them going and when you bust on the road—you might you know—just wire me and I'll send you a ticket to come home."

Her black, Japanese eyes were softer than he had ever known them to be and the protesting hand she laid upon his arm trembled a little.

"Just as you say," he said, thinking: "She's stuck on me, all right. Who would have imagined Fanny getting stuck on any man!"

He left his interest in her charge and took the company on a circuit of one night stands. His hard head and energy helped over the rough places. Business was good and when, after ten weeks, he brought the company into St. Louis he was jubilant.

"Ain't I the candy?" he boasted to Fanny. "Ten weeks on a coal oil route with a bunch of hams and cleaned up $800 clean and cold. Not a bit of trouble until we strike St. Louis and then my leading lady quits. Hit me for an advance and thought I was green enough to pay it. Said all the prosperity was her making and I couldn't show to paper if she wasn't in the bunch. 'Bye-by,' I told her, 'no advance goes' and she goes."

"What you going to do?"

"Do? Why get another. Garen's got a lady for me he says will make the other look like an empty box. Came along down to Havlin's and see a rehearsal."

Managers grow tired of rehearsals but Morris was too new to be blase. He had sat through the melodrama many times and knew every line and action.

He sat beside Fanny in the center of the darkened theater and watched the actors on the half-lighted stage walk through their parts.

The leading lady appears in the second scene, a garden party. She advances from a group of chattering guests and asks the audience, dramatically, who is hiding in the bushes which are indicated at the right. The audience knows that her brother is hidden there awaiting an opportunity to rob her benefactor. But appreciating that she has recognized the hobo no one tells her.

The actors gathered at the back of the scene and said "Buz-z, buz-z" in imitation of conversation.

"Your cue Miss Montfort," called the stage manager, and the leading lady advanced to the footlights. Morris gripped Fanny's hand that lay along the arm of his chair.

"O-oh," she squealed. "You hurt me. What's the matter."

"That's my wife!"

"Morris! Your wife?"

"Listen!" he commanded and sat rigid while Ida went through her lines. When she left the stage he deserted Fanny and hurried behind the scenes.

Ida was standing in the wings.

"Hello, Morris," she said laughing "Was you surprised?"

"Was I surprised? Well I guess. You got your nerve to join my company and me not know it."

She giggled. "Well, you know there ain't no contract signed yet. What do you say? Do I quit?"

"No!" he shouted emphasizing it with an oath.

"Oh, Morris. That's the same swear you said 18 months ago when you came home and dinner ain't ready. You forgive me, don't you Morris?" She slipped her arms about his neck and kissed him.

"Forgive you? I don't know. Did Mazie tell you—never has the flat door been bolted. I kept the flat and slept there every night until I took the company on the road. I searched everywhere for you. I saw you in moving pictures and it nearly drove me crazy. I got so stuck on moving pictures, looking for you that I got in the business and then into this."

"Yes, Mazie told me."

"I knew she could tell me where you was."

"No. I wrote to her, but I wouldn't let her tell you. I was mad when I went away and it took me some time to get over it. Then I was ashamed and I wouldn't come back till I had made good. I worked in moving pictures first, until I got a chance in melodrama. Sig. Einstein got me an engagement. You remember Sig? He went to school with you. I went out with a bum company and we almost had to walk back to New York. Then Sig got me another chance with a Kremer show. I made good and got a good part in another Kremer play. I quit them yesterday at Indianapolis and hustled over here. Mazie's Jake knows Garen and got him to recommend me. I didn't think you'd see me until we showed. I'm so glad you're in the business, Morris. I love it and we'll make money together."

"Was you ever back at the flat? One night I went home and the door was open."

"Mazie went for me. I sent her the key. I wanted some of my clothes that I didn't take away. She wrote me about you coming balling over to her house at 6 in the morning. It was a good joke on you, Morris, but I couldn't laugh. I just cried all day."

"Say," Morris smiled for the first time, "I'll get one of them writer fellows to make a play about us."

"That's a good idea for Pat Short. It wouldn't go at Havlin's. Unless—Morris, I'm jealous of that Fanny Heinz. Mazie told me all about her. Think of her having wedding clothes made to marry you."

"Nonsense. Who started that story?"

"No, it isn't nonsense. Mazie has a sewing woman who works for your Heinz creature."

"Woman's lies. Here, let me get Fanny and bring her here. She's down in the house. You'll like her."

But Fanny was gone and when he sought her at their moving picture houses she was not to be found until a lawyer had arranged for her the purchase of Morris' interest in their business. Morris made a fool trade, he said.

"She was stuck on me but it wasn't my fault," he told himself.

Ida Montfort, known in private life as Mrs. Mandelbaum, is a good leading woman for melodramas of "The Beautiful Policeman's Wife" type. The ladies love her and the men wear out their hands applauding her.

Morris pays her $50 a week and justifies this extravagance, saying:

"She buys her own clothes and if she didn't work she'd cost me as much."

He owns several theaters, wears diamonds and is grown fat, but is still Ida's devoted lover and guardian.

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON.

Confessions of the 700th Wife, Translated for the Post-Dispatch

BY HELEN ROWLAND

BEHOLD, my daughter, with what caution a man answereth thy questions; yea, with what skill he dodgeth the point.

If thou inquirest "Dost thou love me?" he replieth, "Dost thou not know it?"

If thou asketh, "Whom hast thou kissed before me?" he answereth, "Wouldst thou have me talk about other women?" And thou art stilled. Yea, though he hath told thee nothing thou art silenced. And he chuckleth in his sleeve.

For a man regardeth a woman's questions as a trap and he treadeth warily, the path of her conversation. At the art of near-lovemaking is he an expert; even at the science of saying much and promising nothing.

Yet a boy just out of college sometimes meaneth what he saith; but a seasoned bachelor is like unto a phonograph; he repeateth the same old love tunes unto one woman and then unto another until they become a habit; even as the multiplication table repeateth he them by heart, but without heart interest.

Yea, only a married man talketh like Laura Jean Libbey and Elinor Glyn, for he knoweth that he is safe.

For, though a man's name be Smith and his income fifteen per, though his face be as a wooden Indian's and his garments fit as hand-me-downs, yet he regardeth himself as a lamb which thou wouldst shear of his liberty, even as a rabbit which thou wouldst ensnare. For every man thinketh himself a prize!

Verily, verily, it is easier to find a needle within a haystack or an eligible male thing at a summer hotel than a man who will offer up a cross seat in an elevated train. A side seat may he offer thee if thou standeth upon his toes and glareth at him; but if he offereth thee a cross seat—then go to thy mirror for the answer, for thou hast made a "hit!" Selah!

MARRIAGE IS FOR INFERIOR.

So Says a Russian Countess in an Interview for the Post-Dispatch.

BY NIXOLA GREELEY-SMITH.

NIXOLA GREELEY SMITH

"THERE is no happiness like that of an old maid." Such is the remarkable statement of Countess Lydia Rostoptchine, granddaughter of the Russian General who ordered the burning of Moscow, and so compelled Napoleon to abandon his Russian campaign.

The Countess, who has come to this country to lecture, ought to know what she is talking about, for she is 70 years old, and has never been married.

"Woman's genius is for devotion," the Russian Countess continued. "A married woman's devotion is limited to her husband and children, but the old maid lavishes her love on all the poor and unfortunate.

"Love at best brings suffering. It is a wound which the heart of every woman receives at least once, and marriage is nothing but amputation—the extremest measure. If the heart heals of itself—and it will if it be given time—the greatest happiness of life follows.

"You are deadened to all suffering yourself, and can give all your time and thoughts to the sufferings of others. The superior woman, the artist, owes herself to humanity, to Art. She should not give herself to an individual."

"Then you really believe that only inferior women should marry?" I asked, incredulously.

"Yes," nodded the Countess, emphatically. "Jack must have a Jill to match. And there are so many inferior men!"

"I am happier than any married woman I have ever known," the spinster Countess continued. "Think how free I am! I have come all by myself to this wonderful country—this country which says 'forward!' to all the world.

"French women owe everything they have achieved to the example of their American sisters. Until last year a French married woman was not entitled to her own wages. Her husband could claim them at any time, even though she was separated from him. Now the working woman is protected in France. We have women bill posters and women coachmen in Paris. I always prefer a woman to drive me when I can get one, even though the men drivers do everything they can to make their tasks dangerous and unpleasant.

"I am not a suffragette. I don't believe women should make laws. They have nobler tasks."

"Yet you don't believe a woman artist should marry?"

"No, because women artists cannot be true to their husbands and their art at the same time. Take Adelina Patti, for instance. She was madly in love with her first husband, the Marquis de Caux. Yet, because she sang love duets night after night with Nicolini she ended by giving him her affections and deserting her husband for him.

"The same thing is true of nearly all actresses. Contact with other men than their husbands in the enforced intimacy of the stage engenders infatuation. And then, where is the home?

"Eleanora Duse is an artist who lives for art alone. She cares for nothing else. She has no pleasures, no amusements. Her work is her life."

"How about D'Annunzio?" I questoned.

"She still loves him, poor woman. But she would not give him her life for that belongs to her art.

"Every woman must love. It is her destiny, her curse. But it depends on circumstances whether she should marry."

FALL FASHIONS.

Latest Ideas in Style Collected Especially for the Post-Dispatch by a Fashion Authority.

HATS with scoop-like brims, bent close in back and tied with wide strings—after the fashion of the early Empire, are appearing in considerable numbers.

Tailored models with princess skirt and long, straight coat cut away sharply below the bust to show the trimmed front of the skirt are numerous among the imported costumes.

Paris is sending over lovely satins and crepes in the new bronze browns, faded blues, cerise, canard, taupe, sapphire, Egyptian lotus, mordore and the green of the Empire.

Particularly beautiful effects are achieved in the linings of new evening wraps, there being dashing contrasts and delightful harmonies in exquisite new colors.

The new modes are no joking affair to the woman of billowy curves. She may be well dressed in a conservative way, but the smartest models of the season are not for her.

Coat-style sweaters are more than ever to the fore, and the newest ones are of very stylish cut and finish.

Long top coats are a feature of the day and are worn over blouse costumes of another color even more frequently than over skirts of their own material.

Among furs, black lynx promises great popularity, since it blends admirably with all the new colors—blues, catawbas wisteria, taupe, bronze, green, etc.

Pension the Mothers

By Rheta Childe Dorr

From Hampton's Broadway Magazine.

THE foundation of society is the home.

If the home is destroyed what is to become of the country? If children are not properly reared in normal homes they must be cared for in institutions, in reformatories, in prisons. These cost immense sums of money, and the children are not greatly benefited by the expenditure. On the contrary, an institution child is so rarely a success that the exception excites comment. The reformatory child too often becomes the criminal man.

Why wouldn't it be reasonable to spend the money in pensions for deserted wives, widows and women whose poverty would otherwise force them into industry? Why not give temporary pensions to the wives of unemployed men, so much for each child in the family? It would cost the State no more than it now costs to build and maintain prisons, institutions, juvenile courts, probation officers and the rest of the vast remedial machinery. Perhaps—who knows?—the mothers might be better off at home. It is certain that the children would be.

These are facts which are immediately important and vital, not to social reformers, philanthropists and sentimentalists, but to hard-headed men of business, property owners, taxpayers. Capitalist and bookkeeper, merchant and clerk, the entire middle-class population, who directly and indirectly bear the burden of taxation. They it is on whom this thing finally descends. They pay the rent—in the workhouse—of the evicted mother; they pay the fine—worked out on the rockpile—of the deserting husband; they pay the board—in institutions—of the homeless children. They it is who pay the price of future vagrancy and crime, for these children, whatever the nationality of their parents, grow up American citizens. It costs New York City alone $4000 a week to feed and clothe its dependent children. I say nothing of dependent men and women. Figure out yourself what part of your income or your salary goes into this fund, and ask yourself whether or not these facts are of direct interest to you. I instance New York in particular, not because these conditions are peculiar to New York.

How to Brown Hair Without Detection

Mrs. Potter's Walnut-Juice Hair Stain Can Be Applied in a Few Minutes Every Month.

There is a way of staining grey, faded or bleached hair any shade desired, from a beautiful rich brown to almost black, so that it is difficult, if not impossible, for even experts to detect that the hair has been treated in any way.

This preparation has the tremendous advantage over hair-dyes of containing no silver, sulphur, lead or other poisons which invariably cause hair-falling. It has no odor, no oil, no sediment and no grease, and does not rub off on the clothing. It makes the hair grow out fluffy and luxuriant.

A liberal amount as a laboratory trial package of this walnut-juice hair-stain, together with a booklet on hair, is sent by Mrs. Potter's Hygienic Supply Co., 426 Groton Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio, in plain, sealed wrapper, if you will send twenty-five cents in stamps or coin, and if it is desired to continue the treatment, full sized packages may be obtained at drug stores for one dollar a package.

It is applied in a few moments with the comb, and it stains nothing but the hair, and stains it evenly from tip to root. It produces any shade desired from a beautiful rich brown to almost black.

One bottle of this walnut-juice hair-stain can last a year.

Mrs. Potter's Walnut-Juice Hair Stain is recommended and for sale in St. Louis by Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., 6th and Washington av., Roboteau & Co., Broadway and Lucas av., and Johnson Bros., Broadway and Franklin av.

COCHEMS MUST FIND QUARTERBACK TO REPLACE MURPHY; CORNET SEEMS CERTAIN OF SUCCESS BASEBALL PLAYERS ABSOLUTELY AT THE MERCY OF THE NATIONAL BOARD UNDER THE RULES BOXING

CALLAHAN IS CAUSE OF BIG BASEBALL ROW

Former Star of Big Leagues Now Chuckles as He Draws Magnates Into Mess.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY

JIMMY CALLAHAN, one-time National League player, later American League player and at present semi-professional player and magnate in Chicago, and outlawed from organized baseball, is enjoying a good laugh all to himself these days, for he has precipitated a row between the National Commission and a number of ballplayers that threatens to start a real baseball war, and nothing would suit Callahan better than to see the men who put the ban on him lose their power over the other players.

Callahan is a smooth fellow in the game. He is smarter by many points than any member of the National Commission, and by his crafty methods he had led the Washington team and the Minneapolis team and the Chicago White Sox into some fall exhibition games against his semi-professional club in Chicago, whereupon the National Commission has declared a fine against these players and is now threatening to blacklist them.

The rule that national agreement ballplayers cannot compete against any outlawed team at any time during the year was made only last fall, and was a direct slap at Callahan's face. It was made for him alone, and the commission hoped to rob Callahan of a bit of profit gained at his little ball park in Chicago each fall by playing exhibition games against the big league teams.

The players are under contract to their respective club owners only until the close of the regular season, and they believe they have a perfect right to do as they please until they are required to give their services to their club again. They are absolutely right in the matter, and if it comes to a settlement in court it is quite likely the players will win. Still, for the good of organized baseball, the commission is right in trying to deprive outlaw clubs, such as Callahan's, of all possible profits. They would put him out of the business and turn him into the streets a pauper if possible. But it would all be for the good of the game, and they feel they must be heartless in the matter of the individual to save the whole.

For three or four years now the National Commission, which is composed of Garry Herrmann, owner of the Cincinnati Club; Ban Johnson, president of the American League, and Harry Pulliam, president of the National League, has been ruling things with a high hand in baseball. The game has never been so prosperous as under the direction of these men. Yet, there is a hard feeling between the players and this commission, and it has been smouldering so long now that it is about ready to break with fury.

But we probably wouldn't have as clean and successful baseball.

The truth of the matter is that the players are all out to help themselves and the commission is out to help the public. No one can blame the players and no one can blame the commission. Arbitration may settle the present dispute. If not, the players and magnates will be plunged into warfare before the first of the year.

The National Commission is narrow-minded in declaring against Jimmy Callahan because it has made Callahan an outlaw and is now trying to make him a pauper because he still tries to make a fortune out of his profession. Callahan wasn't anxious to become an outlaw. He quit organized baseball because he saw more money in the game for him to have his own little club up in Chicago. He has a world of followers up there who are glad to pay their money to see him and his team play. He feels that he has a perfect right to this money and if another big league player comes to him and wants a job, "Cal" is glad to get him because it will increase the attendance at his park.

Because other big league players have chosen to play exhibition games against Callahan, the commission has imposed a fine of $200 per man. The players naturally have objected and now the commission is in a terrible mess. The matter is likely to be brought into the courts before another season opens.

Commission Can Make $5000 Player a Tramp in Five Minutes Time

BASEBALL is the biggest trust in the world at the present time. The National Commission can put a player out of business and make a tramp of him in five minutes if it should so decide. He may be worth $5000 a year to any club owner as a player but with the black stamp of the commission on his brow he isn't worth a nickle. He might not be able to earn $200 a year in any other business than playing ball, yet the commission can by one sweep of the pen wipe out his commercial value from $5000 to $200 per year.

It's pretty hard for a ball player to understand why it isn't right for him to go out and make fifty or a hundred, or even two hundred dollars extra after the season is over, providing he has filled all his obligations to his club. The ball player is right. He's in the business for all the money he can get out of it and every little bit helps. For three or four years they have lived under the guiding hand of the commission and simply growled a little without once biting. Now they are about to rise up and declare their rights. Of course if the ball players all stick together on the matter, the National Commission's power would vanish in a day.

Professor Cochems Plans This Football Evolution

WRAY'S COLUMN.

MANUAL almost paid dearly for the want of its whistle.

A hopeful head writer pictures all but two of the Cubs as having signed "life contracts;" but the blase dramatic man hints that, by some, these are called life sentences.

The frightful wounds opened in the vanity and pocketbooks of the Giants by their defeat in the deciding game with the Cubs were pronounced much improved yesterday. An ointment of $14,000 was applied yesterday by Drs. Brush and Friedman and it is now believed the men are out of danger.

Washington evidently is a good old soul of a place. The best qualifying score in yesterday's women's golf preliminary for the national championship was 85. Miss Grace Semple took 108 to go the round; yet Washington sends us word that Miss Semple's playing was of the highest order. Perhaps that referred to number of strokes.

Kosciusko came to the assistance of America; now Medwtsky is called to the aid of the Cardinals. But how on earth are we going to cheer him by name?

If that Wabash quarterback really was spying on the St. Louis-Arkansas football game he learned a great deal of football—from Arkansas.

No wonder the Tower cocked hat team made a clean sweep of five games last night when the wind-up man is named Kopp.

Another man has died of injuries received from football. He will be enrolled in the book of gridiron martyrs, although the physician's certificate said a weak heart killed him.

It would seem that Roosevelt's son might emulate his father. He might hold down a football position by proxy.

St. Louis University received, yesterday, the hardest blow of its career when it reluctantly accepted the resignation of Capt. Eddie Murphy of the St. Louis University team. For two years this sterling little player has been the backbone of the eleven, and it was his head that led the team safely through the breakers of two hard seasons. Every man can be replaced, in time, but at such a critical moment Murphy's loss is regrettable. Frank Cornet, Cochem's salvation now, is promising, but perhaps too inexperienced to be a main reliance.

IT is a cheerful outlook for the Cardinals next year. Manager McCloskey called to congratulate the Cubs' management on its victory over the Detroits and stated that he thought the Chicago team would win the championship next year and by a still greater margin. Is it possible that there is to be found a manager who can think his own team will not have a chance, six months hence? Jawn might have palliated the crime by frankly admitting that the Cardinals will be the runners-up in the national race.

Hey, Mike Walker, give Manual a show. Manual had you beaten, in any case, and surely Central is sportsmanlike enough not to want to win out on a technicality that not even the rules support. College football is not professional baseball, you know.

If Jennings, Mullin and Rossman are handed over to New York willingly by the Detroit management at the instigation of the American League authorities and with the idea of deliberately strengthening a strong baseball fowl at the expense of a weak one, just begin to write dirges on another professional sport. Such paltering is approaching dangerously near the hippodrome. So long as Owner Yawkey is content to put up with the meager returns afforded by Detroit indifference, he should be entitled to his team in peace. If a baseball league is to be made "balanced," but one motive can be ascribed—the purely mercenary. The further Ban B. Johnson & Co. keep away from this idea the longer the life and better the health of baseball.

AILSWORTH IS ON WASHINGTON SQUAD AGAIN

Member of Last Year's Team Returns to School and Will Play Quarterback.

"Bobby" Ailsworth, who played subquarter on the Washington varsity last year, has finally showed up for practice. Ailsworth has been working and only Saturday gave up his position, so that he is free now to go out for the team.

The coming of this new man will help Coach Cayou greatly. The quarterback position has been the weak point all season. First Charlie Castlen, then Goldsmith, then Harry Castlen have been tried out. Castlen number one sprained his ankle, and Goldsmith did the same, though it may be said that neither were up to varsity quality. Their work in running back punts was especially uncertain. Harry Castlen is as yet in too poor physical condition to play his best game, so Ailsworth is the right man at the right time.

Ailsworth played third base for the varsity ball team and is a particularly speedy and heady man. His baseball has made him sure catching punts and he is a good open-field runner.

Monday Cayou put the squad through a heavy practice, though he did not have a scrimmage. He had the ends tackling the dummy for about two hours, then sent them after the backs while they caught punts and ran them back up the field. All of the heavy men were chased around the track three times after practice.

MANUAL GIVEN VERDICT IN DISPUTED CENTRAL GAME

The Manual Training School eleven was awarded a victory over the Central High School team by Referee Robinson in a written opinion on the game handed down yesterday, as told in the late editions of the Post-Dispatch. The score was 10 to 6 in favor of Manual, according to Robinson.

His contention is that there is nothing in the rules to say that he shall have any jurisdiction as to when time is up. As soon as the timekeepers ran on the field the game was over. According to Robinson, the Central High School timer and Manual timekeeper agree that they started to run out on the field at least 10 seconds before the play which gave Central its final touchdown was started. This being the case, Robinson decided that the game was over before Central started its last play, which resulted in a touchdown, and if allowed would have given Central a victory, 11 to 10.

McCoy Decides That He Is Now a Has-Been

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.

KID" McCOY is through with the fighting game. He told Johnny White, manager of the National Athletic Club, last night, that he had decided never to fight again, as he was of the opinion that he could not regain his former good fighting form which won so many battles for him during the Horton law days.

"After my fight with Stewart," said McCoy to White, "I sat down and read all the reports of the battle. The majority of the writers stated that I was as far from being the McCoy of former days, and as they also went on to say that I could never regain my previous form, I have decided to take their tip and quit the game."

Lamb Popular Choice for St. L. U. Captaincy

FOLLOWING the resignation of Eddie Murphy as quarterback and captain of the St. Louis University football team yesterday, an election will probably be held tonight to name his successor. But three men are eligible for the place, Frank Acker, Cochems' great halfback; Dave Lamb, who has developed into one of the best tackles in the West, and Archie Lowe, who alternated last year with Dick Roche at end. Dave Lamb is the probable choice, as Acker does not want the job until next season, while Lowe is not particularly eager to shoulder the responsibility of the position.

Lamb's experience and ability make him a desirable man.

Murphy did a very graceful act when he resigned from the squad, yesterday afternoon, according to one of the teachers at the university, who takes a great interest in athletics. Murphy gave as his reason for resigning the fact that his parents object, and also that of late his heart has not been in the game.

"Murphy has not been playing the football this season that he did for the past two years," said the father. "Perhaps it is his health or, as he says, he was losing interest in the game. His joints are stiffening up and he did not have the same snap and dash that for the past two years made him such a great little player.

"I'll venture to say that if 75 out of every 100 persons who witnessed the work of Murphy and Frank Cornet in Saturday's game and were asked which they would put in at the quarterback position they would decide on Cornet."

Murphy's Rise to Fame.

Murphy displaced Frankie Howe, just as Cornet is to take his place. Three years ago Frankie Howe was the regular quarterback of the team. He had been playing a good game and it did not seem possible for anybody to get his position. Murphy, who came from St. Marys, Kan., with quite a reputation as quarterback, was given a chance in one of the games. His work was wonderful. He used great judgment in handling the eleven. He had speed, no end of nerve and was great on returning a ball through a broken field. Howe was sent to the side lines. The next year he tried hard to get back his old position, but without avail and finally quit the squad.

Early in the season, when little Frank Cornet came out, there did not seem a chance for him to replace Murphy. Cochems took him in charge and when the game was in progress Cornet kept at Cochems' heels and the coach explained the different plays to him and the best way to work. Because of his great speed he was worth experimenting with. Cornet finally got his chance and made good. Murphy did not wait to battle like Howe for his position, as he was playing against his parents' wishes, so resigned almost instantly.

Cornet Too Frail?

Cornet is really rather light for a varsity team, but his great speed, nerve and ability to think fast makes him a valuable man. He is also developing as a drop kicker.

Hawkins, Cochems' big fullback, is said to be suffering from an attack of fever that may keep him in bed for some days longer. Brinkop is also out of the game on account of illness. Lindsey has a smashed nose, a small bone broken in his arm and either a broken rib or one of his ribs torn loose. Devlin and Lowe were both out in suits yesterday, but were limping. Sullivan was out, but did not get into a suit. Neither did Acker. They were allowed by the coach to take a rest.

Father Burke, director of athletics at the University, announced this morning that reserved seat tickets for Saturday's game with Wabash College are on sale at Bollman's and Spalding's.

Manual and McKinley are also scheduled to clash a week from Saturday. This would put the two most important games of the season on the same day in the season and rather early in the season.

M'CLOSKEY HAS NOT YET BEEN OFFERED A JOB

Chicago Rumor Adds That He Has Decided to Quit as Cardinals' Manager.

A rumor, supposed to come from Chicago, states that John McCloskey declared that he would not manage the St. Louis Cardinals next season. McCloskey was a visitor in the Windy City yesterday and is reported as saying that he had severed connections with the Cardinals.

Owner Robison of the Cardinals was not in the city today, but from his headquarters it was announced that Mr. McCloskey had not left the team. However, it is quite generally known that McCloskey's job was in question for another season and those on the inside are aware that Robison wants to get another leader for the Cardinals. However, he and Mr. McCloskey parted on the best of terms after the season closed and to all indications McCloskey was to be retained, for Robison instructed him to be on the lookout for new material or trades during the winter months.

Before McCloskey left St. Louis he talked of the plans for the Cardinals for next season.

"I have heard nothing from Mr. Robison that he expects someone else to manage the team next season," said McCloskey. "I would like to come back, because I think I have now gathered enough good material together to make a winning team. I would like to have put through one or two deals during the past season, but they were blocked. Otherwise the Cardinals would have climbed out of last place this year. Mr. Robison has not offered me a contract for next season, but I do not expect one before the first of the year. However, he told me to watch out for any trades or new material during the winter. I expect to spend the winter at my home in Louisville and if I should decide to leave the Cardinals, I will announce it from there."

There has been a rumor that Roger Bresnahan would manage the Cardinals, but nothing official has as yet been given out.

Fred Buelow Breaks Ankle.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Los Angeles, Cal., says:

"Fred Buelow, the Cleveland catcher, who is to play with Washington next year, yesterday broke his ankle while sliding to a base. Walter Johnson, the Washington pitcher, was beaten in an 11-inning contest by a colored team.

Blind Bat Nelson, That's the Way to Beat Him

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Up at Capt. Bond's, in the little town of Stratford, Conn., many great fighting men have trained. Terry McGovern made it his camp in the old days. Young Corbett worked there, "Kid" Broad and a score of others. I've seen a lot of famous lads at old Capt. Bond's. But, unless my judgment is off, I saw the peer of them all in Packey McFarland.

Here's a fighter for you. He's lean and sinewy, cool, smiling, swift, vicious, game, enduring, crafty, clever, ambitious. What other attributes can a champion—or a coming champion—have?

If ever a man had a fighting head McFarland is the gentleman in question. Clipper—almost shaved—his bony front piece has a forbidding appearance. McFarland's head is wide above the ears and well shaped and balanced on a sinewy neck. His cheek bones stand out sharply under a skin sun baked and tanned to the toughness of leather by continual training in open air. There are a few hardly noticeable scars of battle on his face—a nose that has been hit once or twice—ears that weren't quite as delicate as rose leaves.

McFarland is a perfect fighting machine. He is full of nerve and energy. Every movement has the sudden action of a steel spring released from a trigger. His footwork is like a dancing master's. Cross won't compare as favorable with this lightning streak from Chicago as he did with Willie Fitzgerald. McFarland is the faster man, scientific man. He is stronger, too. And in the very cut of his fighting profile is the stamp of a gameness that Cross lacks entirely.

I don't know what chance McFarland will stand with the Battler—although it's probably a good one. Among the New York lightweights he'll look very much like the "real thing." He has all of Tommy Murphy's cleverness and gameness and speed. Murphy should be his next opponent. That will be a fight worth seeing.

I asked Packey how he will try to beat Nelson if he ever meets the Dane.

"Well," said Packey, "I think Nelson can be knocked out, of course, for he's only a little tougher than most of the others. But I hardly thing that's the best way to beat him. If I fight him I'll not try to hit on the jaw at all. I'll have every punch over to his eye and draw the punches so they'll cut. When he's blinded they'll have to stop the fight and declare me the winner. Nelson would never quit. That's the surest way to beat him."

PETERSON AND DALY TO MEET IN CUE CONTEST

Charles C. Peterson, champion red ball billiard player, and John Daly, former three cushion boss, are sharpening their claws for each other. They meet in a 75-point three cushion match at the Pine Billiard Hall Friday night.

Thomas Hueston, world's champion three cushion player, inaugurated his series of practice pool matches at the Rex last night when he defeated Tenney, a Kansas City player, 125 to 52. Hueston played good pool, making one run of 52. This afternoon he plays Charles Crogan and in the evening he meets Ed. Hart. Hueston is practicing for his match for the pool championship with De Oro.

Heckeyer and Agens will meet in the three cushion billiard match at the Rex this evening. Both men have been playing good billiards and the followers of the Benson-Horgan tourney expect a good match.

Kajiwara, the Japanese expert, and Kennedy will meet in the 18.2 balk line business men's balk line billiard tournament at the Hauser Hall this evening. Kajiwara is one of Charley Peterson's pupils and plays a strong game for an amateur.

MISS SEMPLE OPPOSES MISS OSGOOD AT GOLF

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The second day's tournament in the fourteenth annual women's golf championship at the Chevy Chase Club began promptly at 10 o'clock this morning. Ideal weather conditions and the great interest in the game attracted a good attendance. Mrs. E. T. Perkins of Glenview Club, Chicago, played against Miss Pauline Firth of the Country Club, Brookline, Mass., and was the first to drive off.

Miss Grace Semple, St. Louis Country Club, opposed Miss Fanny C. Osgood, the Country Club, Brookline, Mass.

MISSOURI TEAM IN HAPPY MOOD

Tigers See Chance for Clean Record for Football Eleven This Year.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 20.—Rollins Field might just as well have been in the Sahara Desert Monday, so far as any of Missouri University's regulars who played in Saturday's game against Iowa were concerned. All who participated in that terrific struggle were excused from practice for a day and perhaps for several days more until they work back into condition again. Graves and Blatine are both on the hospital list, but not seriously injured. The absence of any hard game for two weeks gives Coach Monilaw a chance to let the men drop down several notches in training.

Westminster next Saturday is only a practice game and it is doubtful if a single regular will play against the collegians, for fear of injury. Last year Nixon, the big Swede guard, broke a leg in the Westminster contest and no similar chances are to be taken with any of the men this fall.

After about ten days of rest the men will be put into shape for the final stretch of the hard schedule with Ames, Drake, Washington and Kansas. Ames plays in Columbia Oct. 31, then the Tigers journey to Des Moines the following Saturday to take on Drake University. Washington U. invades the Tiger lair Nov. 14 and then the final struggle with Kansas comes on Thanksgiving day, probably at Kansas City.

FOOTBALL BITS GLEANED FROM LOCAL GRIDIRON

Interscholastic teams are scheduled for no regular league contests Saturday. The schedule still calls for Central and McKinley to play Thanksgiving day or the Saturday before, with Smith and Yeatman, to meet in their final game.

Schumacher, Cochems' new recruit, promises to develop into an excellent punter. He stands at least 6 feet 2 inches, weighs over 200 pounds, and when he gets the "form" should be able to average close to 50 yards.

Manual Training School has a game scheduled with the St. Charles M. A. team, to be played either on the Manual Training School campus or at the Stadium Friday afternoon.

Coach Walker of the Central High team is anything but satisfied with Brad Robinson's decision, and declares that he will protest to the Interscholastic League officials.

Coach Cayou of Washington received another brace of punches in his already sore solar plexus when he was notified yesterday that Harry Castlen, because of his studies, cannot hope to play quarterback any more this season. Jacobs, his star end, will be out of the game for several weeks, the result of an injured arm.

BIG FIELD OF FOUR-IN-HANDS

Record Number of Six Entries Expected to Compete in St. Louis Show Ring.

Four-in-hands, the most spectacular of horse show exhibits, will be a great feature of the coming show at the New Coliseum. Not less than half a dozen fours with proper coaches and equipment will compete in the four-in-hand rings of the week. There were but two fours in the recent Louisville show, and Chicago never boasted more than four. St. Louis will have not less than six. That many is assured already. And there may be more.

Not only will the fours be numerous, they will also be of the highest class. Those who will send their coaches into the ring each night will be Miss Emily Bedford of New York, Dr. Young of Canada, Mr. W. R. Brown of Indianapolis, Mr. A. A. Busch of St. Louis, Keyes & Marshall of St. Louis, George Pepper of Toronto, Canada; M. N. Tichenor of Chicago and Wallace and Oliver of Kansas City.

This makes an unprecedented ring of fours. Nothing of such quality and number has ever been seen in America outside of New York. President Orthwein is highly elated with the manner in which affairs are developing. The advance sale of boxes never was so good. The membership of the Bit and Bridle Club is larger than it ever has been, and applications are coming in every hour. Mr. Orthwein advises those who wish good seats for the show to reserve at once.

CITY LEAGUE BOWLERS WILL BE BUSY TONIGHT

City Tenpin League teams shoot tonight. The Times vs. Duffys, on Grand Central alleys; Universals vs. Lynchs on Rex alleys; Grand Centrals vs. Minerals on Tentonia alleys; De Soto Stars vs. Witter-Christens on Palace alleys, and Hyde Parks vs. Nadjas on De Soto alleys is the schedule.

Kopp of the Towers of the Office Men's Cocked Hat League, did some good bowling last night on the Royal alleys when he averaged 57-4-5 with a high game of 65 and seven cocked pins and nine misses.

Harry Kicker's Heavies gave the Friscces 100 pins a game handicap in their Grand Tenpin League match on the Grand alleys. The Heavies averaged 905. But the rub is that not all of the members of the team are heavies and "Tubby" Kicker is not shooting with the team.

Some of the scores in the Packers, Keen Kutter and Knights of Pythias League would make appear as though the men were bowling cocked hat instead of tenpins. Chort, of the Hells of the Packers' League, averaged 60% on the De Soto alleys and there was others almost as bad. But the new blood makes the bowling games and the men that are cracking out 200 these days did not start off at the game at anything like 200 speed.

YALE NAMES NEW CAPTAIN; MIDDIES READY FOR HARVARD

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 20

EDWARD H. COY, 1910, of New Haven, Yale's fullback, has been elected field captain of the Yale eleven. Capt. Robert B. Burch of Cincinnati, who was injured, will remain the leader of the team, but will captain from the side lines the entire season while Coy will be in charge on the field. The election was unanimous and is a very popular one on the campus.

Coy played fullback and was captain of his freshman team two years ago and was varsity fullback last year. He was chosen for several of the All-American teams. He tied Burch for captain last winter, and the election had to be delayed for a month for the return of G. R. Berger to vote it off. Coy graduated from Hotchkiss School in Lakeville, where his father was principal. He is a brother of Sherman Coy, end of Gordon Browns' team in 1900.

The team came out of the game against West Point in remarkably good condition.

In the lineup yesterday Scoville Clark took the place of Capt. Burch at right end. Hobbs was back in his place at left tackel, completely cured of his sprained ankle. The rest of the lineup was the same as faced West Point.

Cornell's Work Improves.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 20.

ONE hour's practice in interference and helping the man with the ball along the field was the most important part of the Cornell football practice Monday afternoon, and by nightfall when the men went up the hill the coaches were satisfied that a profitable day's work had been accomplished. Capt. Walder, O'Rourke, Hurlburt and Pavek were the absentees, all of them having been detained by university work. Ebeling and Pope alternated at fullback. Farrington played left tackle and Corman and Cosgrove were the guards. Harris was back in active practice and the Cornell is now without any injured men.

The preliminary practice was short and was devoted to kicking and catching punts, while Gardner, Mowe and Caldwell tried place kicking. The one defect in form that is now confronting the coaches is the tendency to muff and misjudge kicks. If, by the end of the week, the team is playing in good style, the plan of attack for the Penn State game a week from Saturday will be laid before them.

Crimson Practices Secretly.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 20.

COACH HAUGHTON had the Harvard varsity squad behind closed gates Monday. The men came out of their game with Springfield in good condition, and, with the exception of Capt. Burr, all were on the field for the secret consultation and instruction. The big captain was given a needed rest and will be ready for the harder work this afternoon.

All of the cripples were out in togs and given a short run about the field. West is better and will soon be in condition. Sprague is too lame for fast work. The coaching was individual, and for the first time since football opened the team did not line up for signal. Fish was started in at punting, and each man came in for his share of personal attention. The policy of giving the men a light afternoon after a game has not been followed closely this year at Harvard.

Two Problems for Tigers.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 20.

THE first secret practice of the year was held at University Field Monday afternoon. This lasted until 4 o'clock, when the students were allowed to watch the scrimmage which followed the secret drill. The varsity scored twice on the scrubs. Read cleverly worked a fake kick for a touchdown, but the varsity had a lot of trouble making the second touchdown, as the offense was working poorly. Sparks was used continually in linebucking, though with no great success. Coxe finally got the ball over the line.

Next to a reliable pair of ends, Princeton needs more than anything else a good fullback to lead the attack. Smith has shown himself to be below varsity caliber. Coxe hits the line in good shape, but only tips the scales at 170 pounds, and has no kicking ability. McCrohan has been out of the game owing to an injured leg. He went in yesterday, but made a poor showing. Though big and powerful, he is very slow. His work has been a disappointment thus far.

Middies Fancy St. Louisan.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 20.

FOOTBALL practice at the Naval Academy this week will be in special preparation for the Harvard game on next Saturday. Notwithstanding the big score which the Crimson players ran up on Springfield last Saturday, the followers of the Navy eleven feel that it has an excellent chance to tie or defeat Harvard. It bases its belief on the powerful and veteran line and the excellent work which has been done by the back field so far this season.

Not only have the old players come up to expectations, but several of the men on the squad who had not attracted much attention have forged to the front this season and there are one or two first class men among the newcomers, noticeably Dalton of St. Louis and Elmer Meyer, left guard, who has never been able to do himself full justice in his two previous seasons on account of a weak knee, is in excellent condition. Nearly every line man has had three years' experience on the team.

Messrs. Dreshler, Howard and Page of the coaching staff, saw the Yale-Navy game on Saturday. The Navy eleven will be coached to meet as much of the system of the Army's attack as the Navy scouts could discover.

S.S.S. CURES ECZEMA ACNE, TETTER ETC

The skin is an index to the quality of the blood. Eczema, Acne, Tetter, pimples, rashes, eruptions, etc., show that some unhealthy humor or acid impurity is diseasing and corrupting the circulation, so that instead of supplying nourishment and strength to the fine, delicate tissues of the skin, it is continually pouring out its acrid and unhealthy secretions. External applications of salves, washes, lotions, etc., may relieve some of the itching and other discomfort caused by skin trouble, and for this reason should be used, but such treatment cannot reach the humor-laden blood, and therefore cannot cure. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only cure for skin diseases. S. S. S., a purely vegetable preparation, is the best and quickest remedy. It goes down into the circulation and neutralizes and removes the acids, impurities and humors, thoroughly purifies the circulation and permanently cures skin diseases of every kind. When S. S. S. has driven the humors and impurities from the blood, and cooled and cleansed the acid-heated circulation, every symptom passes away, the skin is again nourished with rich, healthy blood and the trouble cured, as the cause has been removed. THREE COUPLES CAUGHT IN RAID ON OPIUM DEN

Accident to Woman Gave Police Clew to O'Fallon Street Resort.

Officers from the Carr Street Police Station raided an alleged opium-smoking resort at 505 O'Fallon street Tuesday morning and arrested three men and three women.

At the Police Station they gave their names as Thomas Treemane, 505 O'Fallon; Lillie and Loretta Williams, 1631 Morgan street; Lulu Summers, 507 O'Fallon; Harry Stencell, 11 South Spring avenue, and Richard Davis, 4425 Maffitt avenue. Treemane said that Mrs. Miller was visiting at the house. Mrs. Miller was assisted to her home by Miss Margaret Meyer and Louis Cohn, 1208 North Eighth street.

THE POST-DISPATCH'S DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

TONIGHT'S RAIN WILL BREAK A RECORD DROUTH

Weather Man's Prediction Will Be Welcome News to Farmers.

WHEAT AND RYE HURT

Deficit in Precipitation 6.9 Inches Since July 20—Coal Mines Close.

The rains which are predicted for Tuesday night and Wednesday may break a drouth, which, Forecaster Bowie says, has been one of the severest ever recorded by the St. Louis Weather Bureau.

There has been only one real, life-sized rain since July 20, when there was a precipitation of 1.16 inches. On Aug. 6 and 7 there was a rainfall of 1.01 inches.

From July 21 to the present time the total rainfall has been only 2.99 inches. The normal rainfall for the period would have been 9.8 inches, the deficit being 6.9 inches.

In June, July and August, 1901, and in September, October and November, 1904, there were similar drouths. This year there was an excess of rain in the first six months and only 1.54 inches of rain are needed to bring the rainfall up to the early average.

Crops Seriously Damaged.

From all sections come reports of damage to crops. Merchants' Exchange reports indicate that the dry, unseasonably warm weather has prevented wheat and rye seeding to germinate properly and there may be a crop shortage next year because of that fact.

The Ohio River has been too low for navigation for almost a month and the Missouri is impassable except by small steamers.

The heat since July has been 1 degree above the normal. In the public schools many of the children have been affected by hoarseness and an unusual dryness and tickling sensation in the throat.

Physicians who attended them have in many cases reported that this was due to the unusually dry weather. To a certain extent this affection has been shared by grown persons.

Drouth Affects Coal Mines.

Drouth at Gillespie and Beneld, Ill., has compelled the four coal mines situate near those towns to haul water from Alton. The Chicago & Northwestern Railroad began Monday delivering 25 oil cars full of water daily. This importation of water has enabled Mine No. 3 of the Superior Coal Co. to resume operations after a week of enforced idleness, due to lack of water.

Gillespie and Beneld are three and one-half miles apart. The Superior company has four mines, including the Consolidated Mine. They lie between the two towns. Gillespie has a population of 2400 and Beneld of 1500, but neither has city waterworks.

Supply Will Last Month.

The water supply for both private and mine uses is obtained from wells. The mines have been troubled for some weeks by a scarcity of water, but private wells will supply water for personal use for another month, it was said in Gillespie over the long-distance telephone Tuesday.

The Chicago & Northwestern, in order to load the 25 cars with water daily, has been given the use of the Illinois Terminal Co.'s standpipe in the East Alton yards. Each oil car holds 40,000 gallons.

East St. Louis News

Candidates for State offices on the Independence League ticket will arrive in East St. Louis, Wednesday afternoon, and will address voters on campaign issues Wednesday night at the Music Hall. In the party will be George W. McCaskrin of Rock Island, candidate for Governor; C. F. Beach of Paxton, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor; Frederick Greer of Chicago, candidate for Secretary of State; E. T. Lister of Springfield, candidate for Auditor, and L. E. Hamburg of Chicago, candidate for State Treasurer.

The meeting of the City Council Monday afternoon lasted only a few minutes. In the absence of Mayor Cook, who accompanied Williams Jennings Bryan to Chicago, Alderman Frank Holten was elected president of the Council pro tem. and presided at the meeting. An invitation was extended to the Illinois Public Library Association and the Y. M. C. A. to hold their annual conventions in 1909 in East St. Louis.

The Hallowe'en "tackey party" to be given by the Elks at the Elks' Club has been postponed to Friday night of this week.

Burglars entered the home of E. Dawkins, 1529 Ohio avenue, Monday night and stole some clothing belonging to C. R. Cochran, a street car motorman.

The Official Board of the Henrietta Hospital Association met Monday night at the Elks' Club and accepted the resignation of its president, W. C. Thrasher. S. J. Fowler was elected president to fill the unexpired term. J. B. House was elected a member of the Board to take the place of E. C. Kramer, whose term was expired. The report of the secretary showed that the Henrietta Hospital is now self sustaining.

The East St. Louis Kennel Club met Monday night and elected the following officers: President, Al Keechler; vice-presidents—J. B. Messick, J. L. Wiggins, H. D. Sexton, C. L. Gray, W. H. Hill and H. C. Peffer; treasurer, C. E. Pope; secretary, E. S. McEntyre. The Board of Governors will be: Dr. E. H. Little, A. K. Vickers, J. E. Combs, C. S. Lambert, Robert Conway, L. O. Whitnel, C. F. It was decided to give the next annual dog show in January.

A building permit was issued Monday for the erection of a six-story office building and stores on Collinsville avenue, near St. Louis avenue, on the Ziegenhein block. The piling for the foundation is now being driven. The structure will be of brick and stone, will contain 200 rooms, will be 58x190 feet and will cost $165,000. The permit was issued to H. J. Fink and A. H. Bear of Belleville.

If the National Stock Yards Co. pays into the city treasury today the $5000 due the city as part of the cost of building the fire engine house on North Second street, in the stockyards district, the city employes will be paid Wednesday for the month of September. The payrolls have been completed, but the $5000 is needed to pay the vouchers. Mayor Cook said Tuesday that the Stock Yards company had promised to send the check, but Assistant City Treasurer Hissrich said it had not arrived.

HIGHER PRICES FOR SECURITIES ON WALL STREET

Stocks Close Sharply Above the Opening; Union Pacific Strong.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20, 10 a. m.—Irregularity marked the opening of the stock market today. Gains and losses were nearly even. The variations from the closing figures were almost entirely of a small fractional character. Third avenue was again the feature. Opening at 29½, which is ½ below its close, it dropped to 27½ in the first ten minutes of trading.

At the ending of the first half hour it had recovered about half of this loss. It was by far the most active stock on the list.

The greatest changes were made in the Hill stocks, both of which opened strong. Great Northern gained ½ and Northern Pacific ⅝ in the initial sales. Prices in all the other issues ranged between ⅛ and ⅜. The industrial section was very dull, many of the prominent issues therein failing to open in the first half hour.

The market developed strength in the early trading. Rock Island preferred advanced ⅜, Southern Pacific, Reading and Great Northern ½ each, Union Pacific ⅝, Northern Pacific and Westinghouse ¾ each and St. Paul 1 point. Union Pacific, St. Paul, and Northern Pacific were the market leaders.

Changes among the industrials were few, but they were all in the direction of higher prices. Americans in London were heavy and from ⅛ to ½ lower.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 (12:30 p. m.)—The stock market was very strong during the forenoon. Large advances were scored by many of the prominent issues. Northern Pacific and Illinois Central gained 2 points each. Union Pacific went over 168, and Southern Pacific and St. Paul gained 1¼ each.

Other rail issues gained from ¼ to 1 point. The industrials followed the general trend of the rails.

Steel preferred was the most bullish, scoring a gain of 1¼ points. The Coppers advanced ¾ each, Consolidated Gas and General Electric 1 each and the others about ½ point.

Trading was in moderate volume only, the sales to noon amounting to 247,900 shares.

LATEST LIVESTOCK NEWS.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Oct. 20.—Estimated receipts today compare with a week and year ago as follows:

	Today.	Week ago.	Year ago.
Cattle	6,000	7,500	8,200
Hogs	9,000	14,000	9,500
Sheep	5,500	6,800	3,000
Horses and mules	1,000	400	450

NATIVE CATTLE—Two-thirds of the day's supply consisted of native cattle, and the fair number of steers received embraced some choice about like the $7 kinds yesterday, a few loads of good ones at $5.50@6.25, but most of the offerings were medium and fair grades, selling from $4.50@5.50. Trade was slow at the start, with prices weak, but later became fairly active.

The fair supply of butcher stock sold about the same as steers, a few lots bringing about steady values, but most sales show a weak to lower tendency. Heifers sold at $5.50, cows at $4, bulls at $3.50, and veal calves at $7.

Fresh receipts of stockers and feeders were not large, and most of the offerings were plain, lightweight kinds, whereas the best demand exists for good quality steers showing some weight. Trade was fairly active and the price basis was the same as yesterday.

SOUTHERN CATTLE—About 2000 head made up the offerings, and the quality was about the same as yesterday, and the market ruled fairly active at shade lower prices.

Some good Oklahoma steers sold at $4.65, with most of the Texas and Oklahoma steers of light and medium weights and medium to pretty fair quality selling between $3.40 and $3.80; cows at $2.30@2.75, heifers at $3.25@3.75, and calves at $4@5.

A few loads of Arkansas mixed cattle completed the supply, sales including mixed lots at $2.05@2.30, cows at $2.30, and calves at $3.

HOGS—Only a moderate supply of hogs arrived and the quality was much the same as for the past week, which means that good quality heavy hogs were very scarce. The market opened slow and draggy and was generally considered on a 5@10c lower basis than yesterday, which places it on the lowest basis it has been for several weeks.

All buyers were slow bidders as the shippers were short on orders and the packers wanted to force prices down as much as possible. The top of the market was $5.70 and the bulk of the desirable hogs sold at $5.20@5.40. There was a liberal number of pigs and lights on the market, most of which were poor quality, and the market was almost demoralized on them. Common pigs and lights sold from $3@4, fair to medium $4@4.50, and good lights that did not weigh more than 135 lbs., at $4.75@5.25. The late market was weak.

SHEEP—A good, moderate supply of sheep arrived, but good quality fat lambs were scarce. The market was a little slow and 10@15c lower on all kinds, the half-fat offerings, however, showing the greatest decline. Good lambs sold at $5@5.50, medium grade lambs at $4.35@4.90, and cull lambs at $3@4. Mutton sheep sold at $3.75@4.15, which shows a loss of 10@15c. Stockers were slow sale at steady prices, most of them going at $2.50@3.50, however, a few sold some higher. Common culls sold at $1.25@2 and bucks at $2@2.75.

HORSES AND MULES—Horse values developed symptoms of unevenness in the auction today. Toppy offerings ruled comparatively steady, but common grades sold lower. The range horse sale attracted a good attendance of buyers and nominally steady prices were paid.

A moderate run of commission mules arrived today. Best sugar mules and miners fairly active; others quiet.

UNITED RYS. DEPRESSED ON EXCHANGE

Preferred Sold at 59 as Against 61 on Monday.

United Railways preferred was the decided feature of Tuesday's session of the St. Louis Stock Exchange. For the first time in several months this security sold as low as 59, at which figures 50 shares changed hands. The depression in this and the other Railways issues was due to Monday's decision of the Supreme Court in refusing to grant the company a hearing. There was a strong recovery at the finish, 60 being bid for round lots. This is only 1 point below Monday's sales.

Bank of Commerce was steady around 230½.

TICKER TALK

Call money on the New York Exchange opened at 1½ per cent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—There was considerable evidence that before the opening Keene brokers had given out the buying orders which developed strength in the early trading. Mr. Keene's intimates say that he does not talk particularly bullish, but there is a firm belief in quarters, not at all accustomed to act on a mere rumor, that he has really had a very important part in managing the market for the bull leaders when organized efforts had been necessary.

St. Louis Money Market.

The demand for funds for three and four months has not shown any improvement this week and according to those bankers who are usually best informed, the attitude of borrowers in this neighborhood seems to be decidedly in favor of awaiting the turn of the tide after the election is over.

Meanwhile rates show no changes of concern. The range is still 4½ to 5 per cent, but small borrowers as usual have to pay a higher rate in order to have their banking needs taken care of.

Boston Stocks.

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—The local copper share market was dull in early trading and with a rather heavy tone. Old Dominion was again the feature, selling at 50¼ in a market rather weak for the general run of coppers. There is also more or less nervousness apparently regarding the coming election. Aside from this market lacks breadth. The activity is really centered in a few specialties. The weakness in this morning's market was simply a reflection of the decline in New York. The close was irregular.

FINANCIAL ITEMS

There was quite a pronounced reaction in the foreign exchange market last week, following the extreme high levels reached during the previous week, in connection with the European war scare. As soon as it became definitely known that the foreign complications would be straightened out without resort to arms by the great European powers, sterling rates became decidedly easier.

The advance in the shares of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co. is due largely to buying by interests who expect a ratification of the reports of the various committees by the Readjustment Committee in the near future. This would mean a termination of the receivership. The floating supply of Westinghouse stock is very small, amounting to not much over 50,000 shares. Arrangements have been made for complying with the various demands of the Readjustment Committee, of which J. N. Jarvie is chairman.

Market Opinions.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Charles Head & Co. say:

"Speculatively we look for quieter conditions, though the larger interests can stir things up when the time is ripe. Small profits should be the rule, with purchases on reactions and sales on bulges."

Boody, McLellan & Co. say: "The market certainly has a tired look. Frequent or almost constant manipulation seems to be losing its effect. Unless the whole list can be moved sharply either one way or the other, the public will soon show but little interest in the market."

Hambleton & Co. say: "We are inclined to believe that the manipulators of the market, who have taken on large lots of speculative stocks, will be only too glad of an opportunity to unload on the public."

Henry Clews & Co. say: "Technical conditions leave the market in a somewhat unsettled state. Stocks are strongly supported because the big holders have not yet sufficiently the big holders have not yet sufficiently remains that many stocks are high in view of general conditions, and that rising interest rates will tend to diminish rather than increase their value."

Carpenter, Baggot & Co. say: "The stock market is in a most excellent position. The undertone is good and the advances and declines have been of sufficient importance to present unusual opportunities to traders, while we think the holders of good investments have no cause for apprehension. There is arrayed on the bull side a larger number of big interests than we have seen at any time this year."

E. F. Hutton & Co. say: "We feel that the utmost conservatism in market operations at present is the wisest course."

J. S. Bache & Co. say: "The market is pursuing a course of steady professionalism with the public inactive and waiting for a pronounced decline."

SLIGHT ADVANCE TO WHEAT PRICES

Prices Fluctuate Nervously Under Manipulators' Juggling, but Range Is Narrow.

Considerable short covering and replacing of long lines of wheat were apparent at different periods of Tuesday's local session, which support was occasionally offset by rather general new pressure. The market, although very dull under an indifferent trade showed marked nervousness and several times made fractional rallies, only as a rule to sag back to about a level with the previous day's close. Final prices were firm and ⅛@⅜c higher on the near futures and ⅛c lower on July.

The early trading was very dull and the market during the forenoon showed little life. Opening prices were steady and shorts early began a covering movement in response to the ⅛d lower to ¼d higher Liverpool cables, which followed our decline of Monday. The effect of this factor was increased by the smaller receipts in all positions which again became general and by the good shipments and more moderate increases in stocks. Early indications were that practically no wheat would be worked for export, as bids were few and out of line, but the domestic cash trade returned to more healthy conditions. Premiums, especially in the Northwest, where arrivals showed sharp decreases, were well held up and Minneapolis reported a quite good flour trade.

Reports from the Southwest state that the drouth has been practically broken up and with the weather throughout the winter wheat states cloudy and more rain seemingly imminent, crop prospects are taking on a more cheerful appearance than has been noted for some time. This factor restricted bullish operations and depressed prices to about a level with Monday's closing, where they struck a steady if dull, trading level.

December wheat opened 1-16c higher at 98⅜@98½c, sold at 98¾c, sagged to 98⅛c, advanced to 97⅛c and sold down to 98⅜c. May wheat opened ⅛c higher at $1.02⅛, advanced to $1.02¼ and receded to $1.02. July wheat sold ⅛c higher at 94⅛c.

Bradstreet reports an increase of 2,334,000 bu in wheat east of the Rockies, an increase of 2,530,000 bu in wheat in Canada, an increase of 1,700,000 bu in wheat in Europe and afloat, and a total increase of 7,564,000 bu in the world's visible supply of wheat, which compares with a total increase of 4,103,000 bu a year ago.

Chicago cash sales Tuesday were 40,000 bu wheat, 102,000 bu corn, and 100,000 bu oats. Export sales in all positions were 220,000 bu, including a cargo of red winter to Portugal.

Berlin wheat closed 1c higher, Antwerp wheat unchanged to ⅛c lower and Paris wheat ¼c higher.

The cash demand at Minneapolis continues good, with No. 1 Northern 2c to 2½c over December and No. 2 Northern December price to ½c over. Minneapolis stocks increased 750,000 bu for three days. Minneapolis cars were 455 against 205 last year, Duluth 284 for one day against 526 for two days last year, and Winnipeg 456 against 258 last year.

London cables show that cane is firm, but little offering; Java, 11s. Beet is active at the advance; Oct., 9s 11¼d; Nov., 10s; May, 10s 4¼d. The Federal Sugar Co. has raised its price for standard granulated 10 points, from 4.90c to 5c.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 20.

CATTLE—Market continues weak and draggy at yesterday's close. Receipts, fair; native cows, $2.10 to $3.90; heifers, $3 to $4.05; cows and calves selling well at from $25 to $43.

HOGS—There was a good run of hogs on sale here today and the market was some lower. While our top was the same as yesterday, at $5.60, our hogs were quite a little better. Bulk of the good butchers sold at $5.40 to $5.60, while the fair kinds and lighter weights sold at $5.25 to $5.40.

Packers bought a liberal number of the medium grades with some weight at $5.15 to $5.35; lighter ones lower. All buyers were in early, consequently the market was active from the start, and everything of any importance was sold.

Town's Business Block Burned.

VINE GROVE, Ky., Oct. 20.—This town was partly destroyed by an early morning fire, which burned the main business block in spite of a first-class fire department and a high pressure of water. The loss is estimated at $25,000, with insurance of $5000.

HUNTER CARRIES WOUNDED COMPANION SEVEN MILES

CASS LAKE, Minn., Oct. 20.—Carl Allen, while hunting accidentally shot off his hand. Allen became unconscious immediately and his companion, Joseph Marlow, carried him on his back seven miles to town.

Allen was standing on a log when he lost his balance and stepped backward. The barrel of the gun opened as he stepped back, and when he had regained his equilibrium the weapon closed and was discharged.

AX REBOUND HITS WOMAN

YORK, Pa., Oct. 20.—Mrs. E. S. Sechrist of Yoe, this county, is in a serious condition from a deep gash in her head several inches long, inflicted in a most unusual manner.

She was chopping wood in the yard, and as she swung the ax it caught in a washline. The elasticity of the line caused the ax to bound from her hands, and, whirling about, it descended like a tomahawk, the blade gashing her head.

ASSOCIATION PROVIDING NEGRO PLAYGROUNDS COMPLETES WORK

City Authorities Agree to Provide Facilities Which 20,389 Children Enjoyed This Year.

The St. Louis Playground Association has disbanded, after a summer's work which resulted in the establishment of two playgrounds in which 20,389 negro children enjoyed outings during the season. The expense was paid from a fund contributed by the public.

This association was formed because the city in planning for public playgrounds for children took no account of the negro children. The association has been assured that the city will provide playgrounds for the negro children next summer and so the society disbanded and distributed the surplus funds on hand among the Tuberculosis Society, the Industrial Farm, the Outing Farm, the Jewish Industrial Alliance, St. Stephen's House and the Neighborhood House.

The Executive Committee of the St. Louis Playground Association was composed of E. A. De Wolf, Dwight F. Davis, G. Oliver Carpenter, Mrs. Mark Hollingshead, Mrs. Frank Camden, H. G. Cleaveland, Mrs. J. W. Day, Mrs. Adolf Drey, Mrs. Hattie Levy, Charles Rice and E. S. Wilson.

Welcomes the Hatless Girl.
From the Kansas City Star.

We do not know—we almost fear to hope—whether it is the setting in of a new fashion, this charming custom of girls going about hatless, but if it is, let us welcome it with exceeding joy. She is becoming ubiquitous, this girl without a hat, and in the street or on the street car, in the parks, wherever she may be, she adds beauty to the landscape and picturesqueness to the view. More welcome, too, will the new-old custom of the fair sex be if one of its results is the dethroning of that awful monstrosity, the "Merry Widow" hat, that dire shape of straw that mows a swath of discomfort through our thoroughfares and which has added to the WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—A world Cocoa Trust is being organized, according to a report from Consul-General Anderson at Rio de Janeiro. He says the movement is in progress in Brazil, Ecuador, San Domingo, Trinidad and San Thome and that the low price of cocoa has led to a desire on the part of the representatives of Portugal and the countries in the northern portion of South America to protect the industry.

The total production of cocoa in the world is generally placed at 240,000,000 pounds, of which the United States consumes about one-fifth.
